REPORT JAPANESE COMMANDER KILLED

Allies Gaining Ground In Final Drive To Oust Japs Completely From Papua

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, In Australia, Dec. 21.—American and Australian troops, employing tank units, today pressed a general attack against the remnants of Jap force still clinging to positions in the Papua territory of New Guinea minus the direction of their commander, Lieut. Gen. Tomitare Horii, who was officially reported killed in action.

Announcement of the opening of the general attack and the reported death of Horii, leader of the Jap onslaughts on the Pacific islands of Wake and Guam, were made in an official communique from field headquarters of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

First Mechanized Attack

Supported by big American howitzers, Allied tank units plowed through the muck and mire of the sodden Buna soil to launch the first machinized attack against the remaining pockets of Jap resistance at Buna Mission, south of Buna proper, and at Sananda to the north.

Gen. MacArthur said that the position of the enemy was steadily and surely deteriorating under the ceaseless Allied artillery bombardments, the pressure of Allied tanks and the continual bombing and strafing by American and Australian air forces.

The communique said that Gen. Horii, recognized expert in surprise assaults and specialist in amphibious campaigns, was reported killed in action somewhere in the Papuan Salient.

Was Military Leader

The Veteran Horii, in addition to leading the assaults on Wake and Guam, was in command of Jap forces which took Rabaul, New Britain Island, Lae and Salamaua in north east New Guinea. He also

Duisberg Is Bombed By British Airmen

By LEO V. DOLAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Dec. 21.—The important German industrial center of Duisberg, at the junction of the Rhine and Ruhr rivers, was attacked during the night by a strong force of Royal Air Force planes which hammered the city with high explosive block-buster bombs and incendiaries, it was officially announced today.

The attack by the R. A. F. was carried out in good weather and followed a strong assault yesterday by American Flying Fortresses and Liberators against the French city of Romilly-Sur-Seine which marked the deepest penetration of the occupied continent by United States planes.

Preliminary reports of the attack on Duisberg, 15 miles north of Duseldorf, indicate that the attack was extremely successful, the air ministry said.

Eleven Bombers Lost

Eleven bombers were lost in the raid, indicating that a probable force of between 200 and 300 craft took part.

British Continue Advance In Burma

By K. D. KARKARE
(International News Service)

NEW DELHI, Dec. 21.—The advance of British forces from India southward into Burma toward the port of Akyab was accompanied today by increased aerial assaults against Jajanese occupation forces.

With Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell's ground forces reported within less than 60 miles of Akyab, Bay of Bengal port on the west coast of Burma, Allied fliers concentrated bombing assaults against enemy airdromes and port facilities.

Airdrome Bombed

An official communique from British India headquarters disclosed that the Royal Air Force bombed the Jap airdrome of Magwe, on the Irrawaddy river east of Akyab, yesterday.

"Bombs were dropped with good results," the communique said.

Heavy bursts pock-marked the airdrome runway. The Japs sent up

Wants To Know Who Is Getting Food From U.S.

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The recent OWI announcement that the government will take 50 per cent of all canned vegetables, fruits and juices packed in this country next year, brought a demand today from Rep. Halleck (R) Ind., that "the American people be told where the food of which they are being deprived will go."

"If the New Deal is about to put the whole world on a glorified WPA food stamp program," Halleck declared, "then the American public is entitled to know it. Certainly it can be no military secret."

The congressman's ire was aroused by testimony before the House small business committee of which he is a member, that many small wholesalers and grocers are faced with closing their doors because they cannot see any hope of obtaining enough foodstuffs next year to warrant staying in business.

The OWI in its announcement,

Gift Laden Truck Held Up In Chicago

Five-Ton Truck From Department Store Hi-Jacked By Four Bandits

(International News Service)

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 21.—Four holdup men were well-stocked for a Merry Christmas today after hijacking a five-ton truck jammed to capacity with Christmas packages from the Evanston branch of a large Chicago department store.

"It was the largest load of Christmas gift packages I ever had hauled out of the Evanston store," the truck driver, Nick A. Biederer, declared mournfully.

The bandits, driving a sedan, forced the truck to the curb, ordered Biederer to lie on the floor of the truck while they drove it to meet another truck into which they transferred the big load of gifts. The transfer required fully an hour, after which Biederer was released some distance away.

Far Below Zero In New England

Report As Low As 45 Degrees Below Zero In Adirondacks Is Report

(International News Service)

Some relief came today to northern and eastern states caught in the grip of winter's first severe cold wave which sent thermometers to as low as 45 degrees below zero, breaking many records and causing nearly a dozen deaths.

While the mercury is on the climb, it still was sufficiently cold in the New England, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and other states fringing the Canadian border to keep furnaces humming at full blast. Dwindling fuel supplies were stretched to the limit as householders bundled up trying to keep warm while at the same time conserve fuel.

As usual, Owl's Head in the heart of New York's Adirondack mountains grabbed the blue ribbon for being the nation's "ice-box." The low reading there was 45 below on Sunday and innumerable other communities in central and upstate New York reported from zero to 25 below.

Suffering, however, appeared to be greatest in the New England states where the frigid blasts resulted in the death of five persons. In the nation's capital where the temperature early this morning registered one above, the lowest since 1917, one death was attributed to the cold.

Coldest In 8 Years

Sunday was the coldest day New York City had experienced in eight years and the three-below zero weather was held responsible for four deaths in the metropolitan area.

In Maine, where a minus 25 reading showed at Greenville, there have

Winter Ushered In With Sub-Zero Temperature Today

Eight Below Zero Mark Recorded At U. S. Weather Observing Station

King Winter arrived on the scene today with the first sub-zero weather of the current season, an official mark of eight below zero being recorded at the U. S. weather observing station at the New Castle Water company plant along the Shenango River. Marks of 10 and 12 below were reported in other sections adjacent to the city, however.

However, relief was said to be due today, with warmer temperatures being forecast today and tonight. The cold snap started Sunday morning when the mercury got down to 7 degrees, and although the day was bright and clear the temperature did not go above 20, and started falling as soon as dusk fell. Before midnight, it had hit the zero mark.

With Christmas only four days away, every indication pointed to a real old-fashioned white Christmas but one can never tell. It might warm up any day now and melt off the snow which has covered the ground almost continuously for the past three weeks.

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, In North Africa, Dec. 21.—A steady flow of reinforcements poured in today to Allied positions in Tunisia while ground activity in the forward battle area continued to be hampered by rainy weather.

Patrol sorties were conducted by both sides, with the Allies scoring a victory in the region south of the main battle area by capture of the town of Pichon.

Pichon, 60 miles south of Medjez-El-Bab and about the same distance west of the port of Sousse, was taken by a French patrol which at first was forced to retire from the point.

The French patrol was aided in its encounter with Axis forces by equipment supplied by the American command.

Consolidated Positions

Headquarters announced that in both northern and central Tunisia Allied troops are consolidating their positions and that frequent contact is being made with the Axis patrols.

Rommel's Forces Keep Up Flight

British Troops Now 130 Miles West Of El Agheila In Pursuit

By W. P. SAPHIRE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

CAIRO, Dec. 21.—Forward armored patrols of the British eighth army, striking to within 300 miles of Tripoli, today pounded at the rearguard of Nazi General Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's fleeing columns in the vicinity of Sultan, 130 miles west of El Agheila.

"The enemy continues his withdrawal," a communique of the middle east high command said.

"Our forward patrols yesterday were in touch with elements of his forces in the neighborhood of Sultan."

British troops following close behind advanced armored units worked continuously to clear minefields left by Rommel in his flight.

Bombed From Air

Allied fighter-bombers meanwhile maintained bombardments against the withdrawing Axis transport columns, ranging westward as far as Buerat-El-Hsun, 180 miles east of Tripoli. Air activity over the battle area itself was on a reduced scale, the communique said.

The fighter-bombers concentrated their attacks along the Sirte-

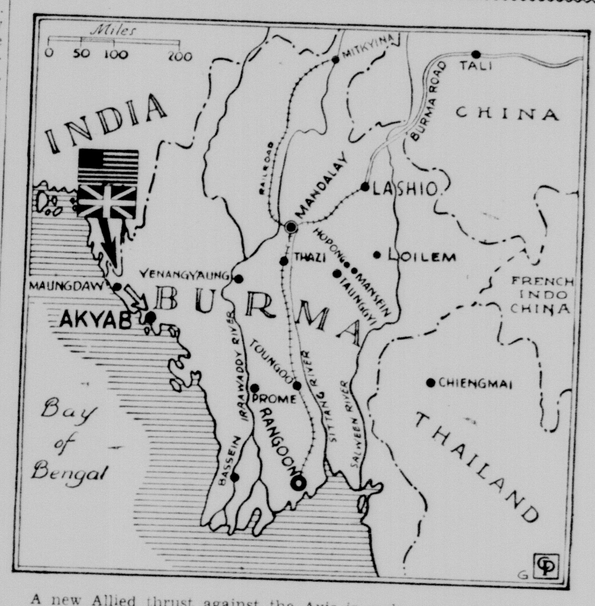
Allies Launch Drive Into Burma



A new Allied thrust against the Axis is underway against the Japanese Army in Burma, where British Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell's Allied forces have launched a drive from India toward Akyab, only good port on Burma's west coast and supply base for all Jap troops west of the Irrawaddy valley. The Allies have reached Maungdaw, indicated on the Central Press map above. A drive straight east would give the Allies control of Mandalay, valuable oil fields and possibly Lashio, terminus of the Burma road.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—The invasion of Burma by General Wavell's British troops out of India, is another brilliant strategic stroke to the credit of the United Nations. Whether or not it is a major offensive, it appears that once again our Japanese enemies have been struck when they were ready to strike at us, but before they delivered the blow. And this has happened to them in every case since they over-ran the Dutch East Indies.

Coldest Wave Of Season Has Entire State In Grip

(International News Service)

The coldest wave of the season held the entire state in it's icy grip today as temperatures dropped to record levels in many localities.

In the Harrisburg area, the mercury dropped steadily from an unofficial five above to the lowest on record for that date, with the weather bureau predicting still lower temperatures and the prospect of the coldest December since 1935. The cold spell, ushered in at the start of the winter season, brought the earliest zero weather in the bureau's history, where the official thermometer showed 2 above, coldest in six years.

Three deaths were reported in the Philadelphia area, where it was five below, coldest in six years. Suburban communities reported readings as low as 15 below and even lower in the Pocono mountain region. Emergency oil distributions to alleviate hardships were made yesterday, coldest December 20th in 41 years.

Pittsburgh had the coldest day of the year with five above, with snow and colder weather predicted. Ernest Scholes, 55, found in a shed near the Ohio river, was the only cold wave victim. He is in a serious condition in a hospital.

The reading at Kane, Pennsylvania's traditional "ice box" was five above, while reading reported two above. It was zero at Allentown and six below at Wilkes-Barre. Among the colder areas reporting were: Scranton, seven below zero; Hazleton, ten below; Dallas Borough, 14 below and Mountain Top, Luzerne County, 18 below zero.

By PHILLIPS J. PECK

Summoned to report to Byrnes, expert at solving government conflicts and confusion, were OPA Chief Leon Henderson, Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Iskes and Joseph B. Eastman, director of defense transportation.

U. S. Airmen Hammer Jap Airfield

Tenth Raid On Base At Munda

Continuous Attacks Being Made On New Air Base In New Georgia

AERIAL OFFENSIVE GROWS IN INTENSITY

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—American combat pilots today aimed a knockout blow at the Japanese airfield on New Georgia Island, the enemy's most serious threat to Guadalcanal.

For nine consecutive days, the American Air Forces from the Guadalcanal area have hammered Jap installations at Munda, in the central Solomons, which is only 145 miles away from Henderson air field.

In all, the American Air Forces have raided this Japanese position for 10 days, beginning Dec. 9.

The latest navy communique stated that dive bombers escorted by wildcat fighter planes struck at enemy installations in the Munda area, setting several buildings on fire.

Continue Raids

This air raid was followed by another in which Army Flying Fortresses escorted by fighter planes started more fires on New Georgia, Japan's latest Solomons base.

Twenty Japanese Zeros attacked the latest American raider force and three of the enemy planes were destroyed but no U. S. aircraft were lost.

There was no explanation by the navy as to whether the Japanese were using the new airfield on New Georgia to protect the Jap installations there.

However, the fact that 20 Zeros were in this area indicated that the enemy intended to protect it against American raids which were designed to wipe out the Jap airfield.

Similar attacks by American planes earner in the Solomons campaign destroyed Japanese bases at Gizo, in the north New Georgia group, and Rekata Bay on Santa Isabel Island, both in the central Solomons.

The continuing American aerial ofensive left no doubt that U. S. combat pilots still were in control of the skies over the Guadalcanal area.

The Nazis admitted that fires were started and that buildings and residential quarters were damaged. Casualties were light, it was asserted.

headed the landing forces which reached Buna last July in an attempt to take the Allied base of Port Moresby through an overland attack. In this campaign his advanced forces reached Iriobaiwa ridge, 32 air miles from Port Moresby, 120 miles southwest of Buna, before being forced to retreat back to Buna.

It was believed at headquarters here that Horii was killed recently while leading a stubborn defense move by the hard-pressed Japs.

Combined American and Australian forces were said to be gaining ground in all sectors in the all-out attack to reduce the Jap stronghold at Buna Mission. Advances are being made against the main Buna airfield, a spokesman said.

Announcement of the presence of tanks in the latest action came as the most significant development inasmuch as it is the first time that the Allied forces have had no opportunity to use these potent weapons against the Japs in the jungle.

It was learned that American-made General Stuart tanks were used in the Allied attack against Cape Endaiadere and Buna Mission which began Friday morning. The tanks were manned by Australian troops.

Report Rangoon Attacked

(An unconfirmed Tokyo broadcast recorded by Reuter's said that six Allied bombers during Sunday afternoon attacked the Port of Rangoon. Hundreds of casualties were caused and severe damage inflicted on the residential district the Japs claimed.)

The Japanese countered the Allied aerial blows with a raid on Calcutta, India's largest city. It was the first time that the city had been attacked.

Calcutta was placed on the alert at 10:17 p. m. and the alarm lasted for two hours. Only a few bombs were dropped in widely dispersed areas. There were some civilian casualties but damage was slight.

An official communique disclosing the Calcutta raid said that nothing of military importance was damaged and that there were no casualties among members of the armed forces.

It could not be determined whether the raiders came from bases in Burma or from an aircraft carrier operating in the Bay of Bengal.

The raiders, flying extremely high, arrived over Calcutta an hour after the alert was counsed. They hovered over the city for half an hour. R.A.F. fighters challenged the Jap craft and they dropped their bombs in areas outside the city.

Christmas season programs were presented in many of the churches on Sunday Extreme cold weather and the gas ban seemed to affect attendance somewhat at many of the services.

Lighted Christmas trees were in evidence in numerous homes of the city last night, indicating that they are being trimmed earlier than usual in some homes.

New Castle bus lines carried a record number of passengers on Saturday, as the last Saturday before Christmas brought a huge number of holiday shoppers downtown. Ban on sale of gasoline also added to the loads for the buses.

Heavy snows of the week-end worked hardships on wild life. Saturday afternoon Owen Fox, while at Gaston Park, watched the squirrels jump from treetop to treetop enroute to one of the feeding stations, as the snow was so deep they could not travel by ground route. Mr. Fox saw one of these nimble animals slip and fall about 25 feet to the ground. It lay buried in the deep snow, the latter being somewhat wet and heavy, bogged the little fellow down, and it could not travel. Owen went over and lifted the squirrel a couple of times with his foot, landing it atop the feeding station with a whack. Although "fuzzy tail" was hungry, it turned and faced its "assailant" and chattered and pumped its tail up and down in an angry mood. Soon it decided to turn in and get a good feed, probably becoming reconciled to the fact that Mr. Fox had done it a good turn.

JOHNSON BRONZE SERVICE MEN TO BE GIVEN BONDS

we have to do at home and make all of us resolve that we will work the harder that our fighting men may get home to us all the sooner."

The decision to send every service man of the company a $50 war bond came this morning when the board of directors of the company met in a special session and passed the resolution unanimously. Permission to make the gift to the service men was immediately granted by the war labor board.

Today the bonds are being prepared for immediate mailing to the service men. Most of them will be delivered by Christmas it is thought, although some of the men in foreign service may not get theirs that soon.

Every Funeral Is Considered Important

Because Boyd Funeral Service has a fine funeral home and better than the ordinary equipment, some families may feel that their patronage would seem unimportant. Nothing could be further from the truth.

The amount a family can spend may guide their selection of a casket, but it does not measure Boyd Funeral Service. We respect each deceased person as an individual, as dear to their families as our own are to us.

. . . . And not only is the Home for Funerals available, but there are funerals here at prices to meet every need.

FAITH

SAME AS EVER

Regardless of wars and rumors of wars, troubles, trials and tribulations, the greatest words ever spoken should still be our motto, "PEACE ON EARTH, GOOD WILL TO MEN". When this was spoken, it did not mean any one nation or one country, but it meant the whole earth.

When all the Earth decides to follow this great command, wars will cease and nations again will have that good will and friendship, which we as His people, in our humble way, try to wish each other.

Let us forget presents, cards and the many things that in the past years have taken away the rightful celebration of Christmas, and give all the praise unto Him who is ready to again return "Peace on Earth and Good Will to Men".

A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO EVERYONE!

AFTERMATH OF NEWS BLACKOUT

IT HAS frequently been suggested that if the newspapers of the country discontinued publication for a week, people would be struck by realization of how important a part the press plays in their daily lives. Last week New York City had this experience for three days.

Members of the New York City deliverers' union went on strike without warning, for higher pay. They did this despite the fact that President Roosevelt was supposed to have issued an order freezing wages. These "executives," who grab the papers after they are printed and carry them to the newsboys on the corners, thought their minimum pay should be increased.

Since, in order to resume publication, the publishers were forced to yield to "arbitration," the boys will no doubt get the raise, and a guarantee of steady work during the war without regard to future restrictions that may be imposed on the press.

But Gothamites learned what it meant to be without any press at all. Suddenly to be cut off from detailed and uncolored news of the war, items of local interest—to say nothing of stock reports and various features of entertainment brought home to everyone the degree of reliance which they place upon the daily newspaper.

As suspected, it was demonstrated that the radio is not even a substitute for a free press. Radio news broadcast commentating destroys much of their value. And the value of newspaper advertisements, particularly during the pre-Christmas season, was only too evident to both housewives and holiday shoppers. Without the guidance of display ads, customers could only roam the shops at random hoping to find what they wanted.

This left wing unwittingly has done a service for American newspapers as a whole. Without this demonstration of what suspension of the press would mean, it is unlikely that readers would have been able to visualize the situation. Extend that blackout of information over the whole country, and conditions would become intolerable.

The only comparable misfortune which could occur in the newspaper industry would be the confiscation of all news transmission by a dictatorial government. Manufactured news and perverted news are worse than no news at all.

LONGER AFTERNOONS

Why each afternoon should be longer while each morning and the day as a whole is shorter than its predecessor requires an explanation, but it will not be attempted here. It is enough that the harbinger of the summer that is to come is given by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey in stating that the sun of December 15 began setting later minute by minute, or fraction thereof, and will continue on that cheerful course until the winter of discontent again becomes glorious summer.

Soon will "the days begin to lengthen and the cold begin to strengthen," in accordance with an old saw, in which there is quite as much truth as poetry. The cold, in fact, has been doing some strengthening during this month, as can be noted by a comparison of the degree days—in other words the average temperatures.

Degree days is a puzzling term to those who first make its acquaintance, but it is nothing to balk at, after all. It is but a quaint way of stating the difference between the mean temperature of a given day outdoors and 65 degress, the temperature the men of the OPA recommend indoors.

All this might look ominous to those who bear in mind that this is a war year, and recall what happened in the way of weather in 1917, when the nation was a war and coal was hard to come by—harder than oil so far this year.

But to expect that the temperature will drop to 15 degrees above zero in Georgia in the first week of January—with temperatures in the remainder of the country in proportion—as it did in 1918, is borrowing too much trouble.

AN AXIS LAG

General Arnold's announcement of new and mightier warplanes to come out of America's factories may have been calculated to worry the Nazis who are supposed to be revamping their entire luftwaffe in an effort to put it on a par with Allied air power.

Hitler has not been using his air power in any major way during recent months, arousing the suspicion that he may be modernizing it. The participation of Nazi planes in the Russian campaign for more than a year has not been on an unusual scale. The British have been bombing Germany unremittingly and with hardly any Nazi reply.

Rommel needed plane reinforcements desperately but did not get them, although the Axis used large numbers in an effort to knock Malta out. When the Tunisia contest opened Hitler rushed some planes to the scene but not enough to give him supremacy.

There is a definite belief that the Nazis are working their planes over stepping up the armor and firepower of old ones and manufacturing new models. The new Nazi planes are designed to equal at least the American planes like the Flying Fortress and the P-38 fighter.

Now General Arnold announces that these are about to be outmoded, that new and infinitely more effective bombers and fighters are about to appear. This must be very discouraging to the Axis. They have lost the momentum in the air war and they can never regain it.

The Axis will discover that more than a million Americans—the number now overseas—can not be wrong.

Remember when "a good judge of horseflesh" meant only a fellow who was expert at picking thoroughbreds?

Those householders who clung to the old-fashioned coal heating can now chortle "There's no fuel like the old fuel."

Uncle Sam will need 6,000,000 additional workers next year, it is announced. Or the equivalent of the present force working forty-eight hours a week.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

BEST TOYS TO GIVE CHILDREN

Many parents, in selecting toys for children, exercise less intelligence than they do in any other Christmas shopping. They too often choose for paint, glamor, novelty.

Those who wish to choose wisely might find it helpful to ask themselves a few questions such as these. Is the toy suited to the age and development of my child. Will he be able to operate it alone and with others of his age? Is it safe and durable? How long will it last? How long will my child use it? How many uses will he put it to? The child beyond two or three will need some toys which will stimulate him to create, some he will enjoy with other children.

Some parents buy too many toys at Christmas time. Better to buy a few good ones than many frail, poor ones.

It's the child from about two to six who may be harmed most by having too many toys heaped on him all at once at Christmas. On this account he may be over-excited and grow scatter-brained and careless with them. In case you do give many toys to your younger child, or his friends do, induce him to let you put some of them away to be brought out later. For any child over three or four to receive many more toys than his playmates makes it hard for him and the playmate to get along well together. And selfishness is furthered more by having too much than by having too little.

Creative Toys

For your child from about three to 10 include creative toys and tools such as crayons, water colors, paste, scissors (snub-nosed for the tot), ruler, hammer, saw, vise and the like; also constructive sets, boat-building sets and model-airplane sets, suited to his age. Buy good tools. Many a child has lost interest in constructive play and craftsmanship because poor tools have been put into his hands.

Include games such as flinch, checkers, dominoes, Chinese checkers and other non-running games he can play indoors with other children.

Don't overlook books, books from which to read to the baby and young child and books from which the older child may read. Choose a few good and beautiful ones rather than many cheap and ugly ones.

In case you desire to have more definite suggestions for choosing playthings and tools for your child, just write me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, and let me send you without cost to you a graded list of them, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Should a child be allowed to go and come as he pleases without asking if he may?

A. Yes; to certain places agreed upon beforehand; assuming you always know within a 15-minute period where the child may be found. However, after 13 or 14 the child may properly be allowed to say "I am going to ——" naming it, with the understanding that he may go if you register no objections. By this time he feels able to make plans and give them as information. Yet he must know you reserve final authority and responsibility.

The World and the Mud Puddles

MISTAKES ARE CERTAIN

Today price ceiling orders, regulations and revisions, continually pour out from the OPA's Washington and regional offices. With these, the vast majority of retailers have shown the utmost desire to comply. But despite the best laid plans of mice and men, mistakes are sometimes inevitable. No mistakes would constitute a miracle considering that the nation has seven million retail tores, many staffed almost entirely by new and inexperienced clerks. OPA enforcement should make allowance for this.

There could be cited the negligence of one clerk, who in filling out a price ceiling form, gave the right price for a package of corn flakes, but the wrong weight. In another store, careless shoppers or possibly children, had changed the position of one of those moveable price markers along a shelf to another product. OPA officials were in a position to jump to the conclusion price ceilings were being violated.

Understaffed and coping with inexperienced employes and a mountainous volume of government paper work, retailers deserve patience for a few excusable errors. They stand thoroughly in accord with OPA's determination to punish willful violations. Their co-operation with the price control program has been recognized and praised by Leon Henderson. The large retailing systems under unified management have been exceptionally well fitted and anxious to bring thousands of retail outlets effectively under the price ceiling program. Retailing has a big stake in fighting inflation.

Mistakes in living up to a complicated price ceiling program are probably inevitable, but let's not unjustly condemn merchants when they do occur.

COURTESY

Courtesy is the most important element in human relationship. Without it, we are as the animal in the jungle. With it, we radiate friendship wherever we go. The boor no matter how great a mental giant, is shunned. The courteous man, no matter how lacking in book knowledge, leaves a lasting impression of fine character. For courtesy is simply a feeling of respect, thoughtfulness and consideration for one's fellow men.

One of the greatest tests of your sense of courtesy is your reactions while riding in a public vehicle. Have you ever noticed the lack of consideration for others that exists there? The boor almost knocks you down dashing in the door to get one of the few remaining seats. He is suffering from swivel chair exhaustion! (He is the type who every night takes the most comfortable chair in his living room, letting his wife have what's left.) It is far better to wear yourself out standing than to make yourself ridiculous rushing madly to sit down for 15 or 20 minutes.

When you find that you have collided with someone, smilingly beg her pardon, whether it was your fault or not. Note the effect you create in comparison with those who glare with an expression indicating: "How dare you?"

Be courteous always, and you will in turn receive courteous treatment.

Question: I have recently married and moved to a distant city. Several of my husband's friends have called on me and left their cards. I notice that one of them, a woman, has written in ink on her card: "Third Wednesdays." What does this mean?—Mrs. G.

Answer: It means that she is at home to callers on every third Wednesday of each month. Sometimes this announcement is engraved on the lower left-hand corner of visiting cards—and sometimes it is written in ink.

FLUNK

They tell of a college student taking a course in modern writing, who, with no time to write something of his own, grabbed a copy of the American Mercury and copied, word for word, some of the writings of H. L. Mencken.

He handed the paper in and the following morning it came back with a marking of 100 percent. The boy hadn't even been suspected. So, when the next test came along he employed the same trick but this time copying an article by George Jean Nathan and handing it in under his own name. That, too, came back with a marking of 100 percent.

The youth was now supremely confident. It was obvious that the professor knew nothing about anything. When the third and final test came along, he copied one of Mark Hellinger's alleged articles. However, Hellinger's copy came back with a marking of 60 percent—which meant that it had just passed.

The student decided to brazen this thing out. So he walked up to the professor as soon as class was over and stated, "I can't understand this marking. You give me perfect rating on my first two articles—and, on my third, you just pass me. Why is that?"

The professor looked very tired as he answered with a sigh, "I don't mind giving Mencken 100 percent, and certainly don't mind giving Nathan 100 percent, but I'll be darned if I even wanted to pass Hellinger."

It is predicted that 1943 will be a tough year. Everything predicted now is tough.

New Interest Is Shown In Tropical Area
Rubber Shortage Has Awakened Uncle Sam
Find Amazon River Territory Unhealthful

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Uncle Sam is learning the tropics today as he never knew 'em before. He had an idea that southern Mexico, Cuba and Panama had educated him, but those experiences were mere primary training.

Our yearning for rubber is what so intensely interested us in the subject.

When we got the stuff from the Dutch East Indies we didn't concern ourselves as to the then source of its origin. We simply bought, paid for and brought back shiploads of gum, leaving the Dutch and the East Indians to do the worrying as to the cultivation and harvesting of it.

It would have been a bright idea if we'd been considerably more thoughtful relative to a new worldly supply of it.

The trees it oozes from are thick up and down the Amazon valley, but it requires quite a few years to develop a tree up to its maximum output of the juice. Moreover, a tremendous staff of workers has to be created, to go around tapping the trunks of 'em, and delivering the goo into headquarters.

Manpower is scarcer up the Amazon than it appears to have been in the East Indies.

It can be recruited somewhat by good pay to available natives, but the difficulty's to keep 'em alive after they're mobilized.

Diseases And Bugs

That rubber valley has a larger assortment of hot-weather diseases than civilized medicine's ever had any experience with heretofore. Insect-bearing bugs are more numerous in that region than anywhere else on our globe, I'll bet you.

I had a dose of 'em some years ago—anthrax critters. To this minute I've got scars of their nibbles. And, of course, there also are yellow fever, ordinary hookworm, cholera, yaw and leprosy. Being an outsider, I suppose I was a trifle more susceptible than the average local inhabitant, but he isn't immune, either. Dump him into the infected territory, in rubber-gathering numbers, and they'll get him, believe me.

Consequently, fill up that valley with a big force of chaps from the comparatively healthy coastal continental fringe, and they'll die about as rapidly as they'll get there.

Inter-American Co-ordinator Nelson Rockefeller has had delegated to him the task of dealing with this complication.

With holly deck the entrance hall,
And light the candles gay,
And don't forget the children small
Who wait for Christmas day.
For while all hearts must sadder be
And easy 'tis to weep,
They fight upon the land and sea
That Christmas we may keep.

There is no war for youngsters small,
No doubt or grief or fear,
With faith for Santa Claus to call,
They look from year to year.
Nor would our soldiers, land or sea
Or winging through the sky,
Be very proud of us, if we
Spoiled Christmas with a sigh.

So have the table length increased,
And call the youngsters round
And have the turkey for the feast
The pudding holly-crowned.
Then, just before the plates are piled,
Bow heads to God to pray,
Remembering Mary's Holy Child
Who gave us Christmas Day.

Dewey And The Draft

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.

LESS attention than they deserve seems to have been given the recent statements of widely recognized Republican presidential possibilities eliminating themselves from consideration as candidates for their party nomination. There have been three of them—Dewey, Taft and Vandenberg—and there were two interesting things about their statements. First, they came from men who were real possibilities; second, they were all three unquestionably sincere.

OF THE three, the declaration of Governor-elect Dewey, made to Gould Lincoln, of the Washington Evening Star, was the most significant. By reason of his November New York victory, which will make him the first Republican governor of that state in fourteen years, he had been accepted generally as having an advantage over all other aspirants. During his campaign Mr. Dewey asserted his intention, if elected, of serving his full four-year term of governor. None of the politicians or political commentators took that seriously. It was regarded as the usual thing to say, but by no means a real obstacle to a consistent effort to land the nomination for which, it was conceded, he had the best chance.

IT WAS fully expected he would make the effort. Hence, his statement a week or so ago was a surprise. For one thing, he did not have to say anything on the subject. There was no pressure on him for a statement. For another, so far as he could, he really did close the door on the nomination. He left no loopholes, fire escapes or rope ladders. He not only reiterated his campaign promise but he declared that he wanted it clearly understood he would make no speeches out of the state, wanted no clubs formed to promote his interest, and no friends to engage in any activity in his behalf. Moreover, expressing the conviction that no one was ever "drafted" for a presidential nomination without conniving in the draft (which is certainly true) he declared that he would not be drafted.

IT WAS an unusual statement. One effect undoubtedly will be to enable Mr. Dewey to be a better governor than if he had his mind on 1944. Another will be to open the

LOOKING AT LIFE

—By Erich Brandeis

Another "banker" has gone wrong. The chief clerk of a suburban trust company, near New York, has been arrested for embezzlements totalling $35,000 over a seven-year period.

The fellow, who is 32 years old, started with the bank when he was 15 and worked himself up to a position of trust. He has a family and is a respected citizen.

But, for the moment his home is the County Jail, where he is confined in default of bail.

He blames the horses and the numbers for his predicament—and that's the thing that gets me so darn sore!

Who forced you to play the races and the numbers, mister?

You have a radio set, haven't you?

Who forces you to turn on a program that you don't want to hear?

Who prevents you from tuning it out if you don't like it?

Who forces you to eat what isn't good for you?

Who makes you wear clothes that are not your style?

Every crook always blames someone beside himself for his crimes.

What difference does it make if it's horses or women, whisky or gambling that you spend your stolen money on?

Theft is theft, and there's no excuse for it.

I'm certainly no goody-goody, but every time I've done something wrong, I've had to pay the price.

Horse racing isn't to blame for thieves.

Horses don't bet, they run.

It's the human being that is weak. It's lack of willpower that causes the trouble—not horses or paper slips.

I'm sorry for anybody who sits in the calaboose. It's an awful fix to be in.

But for Pete's sake, when you do get into trouble, be at least man enough to blame the only one who is to blame—yourself!

I'd rather bet on a horse race any day than on some people I know.

Holiday Travel Here Is Heavy

Rail And Bus Lines Report Record Traffic Prospect Of Week

District trains and buses moved through New Castle today with their heaviest Christmas holiday loads in history.

Railroads and coach lines, long prepared for the jams, reported most train and bus movements "on time today" and assured travelers schedules will be kept to the best of the operating forces' ability.

Motor coach lines warned all long-distance riders to expect to arrive from 12 to 24 hours late.

"Better yet," they added, "get a 24-hour head start."

Like everywhere else, the railroad and bus terminals were crowded. But officials of both highway and rail systems warned that "the biggest days are to come."

Ticket Agent Charles I. Wetmore of the Pennsylvania Railroad said he expects December 24 to 27 to be the peak travel period.

Bus Terminal Agent Ernest M. Crawford figures that, too, and said that arrangements to add extra sections to long-distance coaches have been made.

"We'll add buses when we can get them—we hope to get them," he explained.

Railroads, too, will have additional coaches when hauling grows heavy, but, like the buses, the rails haven't too many extras to draw upon this year.

Wetmore said the Pennsylvania—and that's true of all local lines—has experienced little of the "standing room only" volume in the district so far. But he admitted nobody can tell what's ahead.

Soldier travel to and from homes will add to the transportation problem, and just what the local situation will be come Christmas is something nobody can predict.

SEALS STEAL FISH, FACE 'BLITZKRIEG'

SOUTH BEND, Ore. — Seals, valued in northern climes for their furs, a source of interest when they perform in circus rings and always the center of a crowd in city zoos, are a menace in the eyes of salmon fishermen of southwestern Washington.

Seals living in Willapa harbor have stolen at least 30 per cent of the season's normal catch of salmon from fishermen of the area, local authorities estimate. An official of the South Bend fishermen's union reported that seals took 11 of 14 salmon caught in one of his nets.

State fishery authorities have agreed that something drastic must be done about the robbers and they are working on plans to exterminate or at least reduce the herds.

DOG BREEDING IS BEING PLACED ON A WAR FOOTING

(International News Service)

DALLAS, Tex. — Another industry, that of dog breeding, is now undergoing conversion to a war footing in three southwestern states.

Forming an organization known as "Dogs For Defense, Inc.," dog fanciers in Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico have pooled their pooches and offered them to Uncle Sam, complete with diplomas from war dog finishing schools.

Lewis G Spence and Russ Ellis are co-directors and sponsors of the defense dog idea and have collected a voluminous file of deeds of bravery and service by dogs under wartime conditions.

Dogs have already been trained and sent out on army duty by the New Jersey branch of the organization and are used as supplementary sentries with the regular soldier guard details. Some are in use at Camp Hancock, others are being used for night work with civilian guards in defense plant areas in Texas and California.

It is estimated that it took 60,000,000 years to create the Carlsbad Caverns, natural wonder of New Mexico.

Prisoner Makes His Escape From Idaho Penitentiary

Convicted Murderer Leaves Dummy In Bed In Cell And Flees Prison

(International News Service)

BOISE, Ida., Dec. 21.—Leaving a dummy in his bed to fool guards, Duncan M. Johnston, former Twin Falls, Ida., mayor and convicted murderer, escaped from the state penitentiary late last night, it was announced today by Boise authorities.

Johnston, twice convicted in the sensational 1938 murder of George Olsen, a Salt Lake City jewelry salesman, escaped under cover of a heavy fog.

Warden C. Van Clark of the penitentiary said Johnston apparently walked away from a small house just outside the prison walls where he was stationed with another trusty to watch a pump.

"We tracked Johnston in fresh snow to about one-half mile from the prison where the treads and his footsteps indicated he had met a waiting car," the warden said.

Police were watching the Boise home of Johnston's mother on the chance he would attempt to visit her.

Premier Stalin Is 63 Years Old Today

Red Army Presents Him With New Gains On Russian Front On Anniversary

By NATALIE RENE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Dec. 21.—The Red army celebrated the 63rd birthday of its leader, Premier Joseph Stalin, today by presenting him with new gains in three large-scale winter offensives designed to drive the invader from its homeland.

The new Soviet offensive in the Middle Don area, coupled with the successful progress of the Stalin Red drive launched in accordance with the premier's own plan, helped to make the Soviet helmsman's birthday a happy one.

Symbolically, perhaps, Stalin's birthday falls on the first full day of winter, the Red army's most successful season of the year. As far as his daily program is concerned, it is just another day to the leader of the Soviet Union.

He spent the day hard at work at his desk, keeping up with rapid developments on all Russian fronts and taking time out to maintain his close touch with the Russian people.

MIDDLE DON DRIVE PLOUGHS FORWARD MOSCOW REPORTS

to check the fast-moving drive which threatens a complete rout of Germany's southern armies.

Continue Offensive

"In the area of the middle Don," the communique said, "our troops continued their successful offensive.

"The enemy tried to check the advance but under heavy blows by our army rolled back."

Large fleets of bombers and fighters were thrown into the central Don battle area by the Germans in their effort to hold up the Soviet offensive. The Russians, however, mustered sufficient planes to form a protective umbrella for their forces in the fierce engagements.

Several inhabited localities were captured and severe new losses inflicted on the Nazis, the high command said as the red army pursued its earlier gains across the snow-swept plains to maintain an average daily advance of 15 miles.

Nazis Pressed Back

Field dispatches indicated that the Nazi armies trapped in the middle Don are being pressed back from the Don river elbow toward bomb-scarred Stalingrad. Two Soviet armies, one from the northwest and one from the southwest are squeezing the Germans in a deadly vice.

On one sector of the newly-opened front where the Nazis have now been thrown on the defensive 1,300 were killed in trying to resist the Soviet tide. Many prisoners were taken.

At one point red army troops surrounded a German garrison, stormed it and captured a strategic village.

Numerous additional Nazi blockhouses were destroyed in continued fighting in the factory area of Stalingrad, the communique said.

Northwest of the Volga industrial city the Russians launched new attacks and successfully repulsed all German counter-measures.

The communique said the Soviet air force lashed out against German airdromes and destroyed 20 Nazi planes on the ground.

To the southwest of the city a single enemy counter-attack was repelled.

On Central Front

The picture was the same on the central front west of Moscow, with the Soviets smashing relentlessly at the German defenses.

During stubborn fighting for one fortified village, the high command said, many counter-blows were repulsed and 45 blockhouses and 49 dugouts were destroyed.

On other positions of the central front, it was added, the Russians engaged in consolidating newly-won positions.

In the surprise new drive in the middle Don area the Russians were reported to have struck to within 25 miles of the Millerovo junction where the line to Rostov crosses the road to Kharkov, starting point of the German drive on Stalingrad.

ROMMEL'S FORCES KEEP UP FLIGHT

Buerat-El-Hsun road. A new night attack against Axis installations at Buerat-El-Hsun also was announced.

Dispatches from the front reported that Rommel's rearguard was absorbing terrific punishment around Sultan.

In their flight toward Tripoli, and apparently on toward Tunisia, the main Axis forces were said to have reached a point west of Sultan. The British, following a day of gruelling fighting in the vicinity of Nofilia, 95 miles west of El Agheila, were reported moving forward again close on the heels of the Germans and Italians. Some of the enemy still remained a few miles east of Sultan.

Round Up Italian Troops

(A Reuter dispatch from Allied headquarters in North Africa stated that French patrols southeast of Tunisia had rounded up Italian troops which already had started moving out of Tripolitania, the western province of Libya, into Tunisia.

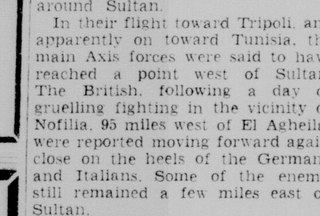
(One captured group of Italians, it was said, declared they were transported by sea to the Tunisian port of Gabes. They were intercepted by the French while trying to move northward to join Nazi Lieut. Gen. Walther Nehring's main forces in Tunisia.

(A dispatch to the London News Chronicle said that it was believed the Axis no longer was attempting to use the port of Tripoli as a base since it has been so shattered by Allied bombings.)

Middle east headquarters of Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander said that British troops under command of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery were following close behind the retreating Axis rearguard.

A communique told of new large sweeps against Rommel's fleeing motorized columns as far west as Buerate-El-Hsun, 60 miles west of Sirte and 180 miles from Tripoli.

Allied fighter planes, operating from advanced bases occupied immediately after the Axis flight from mid-Libya, gained considerable success in formidable forays against the enemy transport columns, the communique said. Axis forces failed to hinder the British operations and what activity was carried out by Rommel was only on a small scale, it was said.



TROOP 24

Troop 24 held their weekly meeting in the lodge room of St. Joseph's school and completed their Christmas project, which was the making of picture and story books for the New Castle hospital. The Girl Scouts will pack a basket next Tuesday after school instead of Monday after school.

GASOLINE SALES ARE RESUMED

of oil to the Atlantic seaboard and Sen. Maloney (D) Conn., chairman of a special committee to investigate petroleum shortages, announced that his group has resumed its study.

Maloney said that recent developments have convinced his committee of the necessity for a complete study of the nation-wide petroleum situation with the purpose of keeping the nation informed of just what it must expect in the future.

Asked of Problems

Members of congress and governors have been asked to advise the committee of particular problems in their parts of the country and Ickes, Henderson, Eastman, WPB Chairman Nelson and War Shipping Administrator Land also have been asked to submit facts.

OPA spokesmen said the east coast gas moratorium was necessary to prevent a wave of panic buying. Gasoline stocks already were so low in New York City and other areas that there was not enough motor fuel on hand to honor ration coupons, they explained.

Although the sudden crisis was precipitated by a hurry-up demand for petroleum for the military forces in north Africa, word of the New York and other shortages would have spread "like wildfire" and started a "run" on filling stations throughout the east, OPA said.

Officials said that plans already were being formulated to deal with a general worsening of the eastern petroleum situation when the "military emergency" occurred. They pointed out that "A" coupons were cut to three gallons on Nov. 22 and further steps were in process.

When an overnight crisis developed because of military demands, the drastic "freeze" was necessary to prevent a gasoline-buying panic and permit orderly institution of new rationing procedures, OPA spokesmen asserted.

"B" and "C" coupons are good for only three gallons of gasoline at present under reopening orders.

where many hits were scored on railway yards. The target area was completely obscured by smoke before the Allied bombers left.

American parachutists under Col. Edson Raff of New York were revealed to have employed American Indian tactics in bagging a group of Italians. The parachutists were parolling in the southern sector when they found a railroad station filled with sleeping Italians.

They reconnoitered in Indian fashion, secured reinforcements and then shot up the napping enemy forces, killing or wounding all but 21 who were taken prisoner.

French Ships Aid

Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower revealed that French merchant vessels turned over to the Allies are proving a valuable addition to Allied shipping. They are being used partly in military tasks it defeat the Axis and partly to supply the economic needs of North Africa. Many of the ships came from Casablanca, Oran and Algiers.

Mud-bogged roads in no-man's-land continues to hamper movement of tanks and trucks and a transport plane dubbed the "Christmas Special" was arranged for to carry holiday mail and packages. The arrangements was made by Sergt. Percy C. Bartlett, of Galesburg, Ill., an army photographic service man.

The Russian general, Alexander V. Surarov, said all military knowledge could be summed up in three words. Theye were: 'Stoupai i bi,' "Forward and strike."

MAJOR RABORG DISCUSSES LATEST WAR DEVELOPMENTS

by General Montgomery's eighth British army, and the successful Soviet drive to the west of Stalingrad, are of untold strategic value towards the ultimate United Nations victory. But even though in the latter case the red armies have penetrated to a depth of a hundred miles into Nazi defense systems, and even though this might eliminate Hitler's attack of Stalingrad, still General Wavell's assault against Burma has, for the moment, gathered the vast majority of public interest. This is probably because it is the first direct attack against the Japanese in any of the territory that they stole from the United Nations at the commencement of our war. The people the democracies desire more than anything else that the Japanese be exterminated and thrown out of the countries they overran during the first few months of the conflict. General Wavell's attack is a positive step in this direction.

Must Study Conditions

However, there are many basic conditions that should be most carefully studied in regard to a British invasion of Burma out of India, and, as a matter of fact, the reverse, that is, a Nipponese assault out of Burma aimed at India.

In the first place, French Indo-China and Siam are the main bases for the invasion forces of the empire of the Rising Sun in the entire western Pacific area. The Nipponese wanted French Indo-China because from that location they could strike southwards at the Dutch East Indies, or to the north against the Malayan peninsula, Burma and China, or to the west at India. It was from this case of operations that all Japanese attacks have originated, except their assault against our Philippine Islands and Hong Kong.

Secondly, it should be remembered that the Japanese navy now holds the strong British naval base at Singapore. Thus, their fleets have direct access through the straits of Malacca into the bay of Bengal. And far to the north in the bay of Bengal, in continuation of the island of Sumatra, are the Andaman islands which are Nipponese held. These islands are directly off the coast of Malaya and Burma, and supply the Japanese with strong points actually in the southeastern entrance to the bay of Bengal.

Japan's Position

Therefore, Japan is ideally situated to precipitate a naval operation from Burma, that is, if she has sufficient number of warships to be spared for this purpose.

Now to look at the land border between India and Burma. This is made up almost entirely of rough difficult mountains covered thickly with jungles. We all remember that our General Stilwell came out of Burma on foot over these mountains, and it took him many days of travel through the jungle growth. He said: "We've had a hell of a licking, but I'm going back."

We know there are no roads, particularly highways, that are susceptible to military use through these mountains. We know that they could not have been constructed by the British within the last six months, because the monsoon which lasts for that length of time has just concluded. During its rains, road construction would have been well-nigh impossible.

Therefore, without doubt General Wavell's invasion of Burma followed a coastline out of India to its striking point. This coastline is a fairly narrow corridor where it goes around the mountains I have been describing, and is defendable by either side against a large scale offensive. I have always felt that any invasion of Burma from India, or the reverse—from Burma to India, would of necessity logically be made by water.

General Wavell's attack is aimed at Akyab, Burma, and I believe because it was considered the Nipponese were massing there for an overseas invasion on this short route to India. So once again, we have struck our enemies squarely between the eyes before they were able to hit us.

Johnstonian Posts Reward For Wagner

Philanthropist Will Pay $1,000 To Person Finding Missing War Ace

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 21.—A $1,000 reward to the person or persons who find Lieut. Col. Boyd D. "Buzz" Wagner, Johnstown war ace, missing on a routine flight from Florida to Alabama was posted today by Isadore Klatzkin, local philanthropist.

Wagner has been missing since November 29 and has been the subject of an extensive manhunt conducted by the U. S. Army. While planes has patrolled the air, searching parties have tracked through countless miles of forests and wastelands, but no trace of either Wagner or his airplane has been found.

Wagner distinguished himself during the early days of the war while fighting in the Philippines and later added to his record while flying in the Australian theatre of operations.

The Great Game Of Politics

Republican field wider not only to such governors as Bricker of Ohio, Stassen of Minnesota and Saltonstall of Massachusetts but to the dark horses, in and out of Congress, who may develop within the next eighteen months. Senator Taft, of course, is committed to Governor Bricker and will support him so long as he is a candidate, while Senator Vandenberg genuinely does not want the nomination. All of which changes the whole Republican picture from what it was right after the election.

IT IS interesting that the elimination of the Messrs. Dewey, Taft and Vandenberg does not in the least improve the chances of Mr. Willkie. Though Mr. Dewey will not be a candidate himself, unquestionably he will control the big New York delegation in the convention, which means it will be anti-Willkie. Obviously, Mr. Willkie wants to run again, but while he did achieve a political miracle at Philadelphia in 1940, the increase in his party enmities make it improbable he can be renominated. The reason these Republican speculations are interesting now is because of the growing conviction that any first-class Republican, without real liabilities, is likely to win in 1944.

THIS BELIEF is based not only on the results of the last election and the feeling that the tide has turned against the New Deal, but upon observations of the effect of wars upon the voters. For example, it is pointed out that in all wars prior to the first World War, less than three per cent of the people were under arms and less than three at home in war work. Ninety-four per cent pursued their ordinary way of life. They were unaffected by the war, admired their military leaders, sometimes elected them to high office after the war or kept the administration in power for a long post-war period. In the first World War things changed. In that war more than three per cent were under arms and vastly more at home in war work. The economies of the nations engaged were dislocated and the smoothness of civilian life disrupted.

INSTEAD OF lauding their heroes, within sixteen months after the Armistice every belligerent nation had thrown its war leaders into the discard. The one exception was Germany, where Hindenberg was put up merely as a stooge. This time it is argued the number here under arms and the number engaged in war work is great beyond all precedent. The life of every citizen will be deeply affected by the draft by casualties, by taxes, by restrictions, rationing and regulations. Millions of injustices and inequalities are inevitable. Resentments such as have not been known before are bound to be generated.

IF THE lessons of history are worth anything, then this, it is contended, should mean that, at the first opportunity after the war ends, the American people will sweep out of office the present administration and everybody connected with it. Certainly, that happened in 1920 in the first election following a victorious war competently conducted by the Wilson administration. Few questioned that the result was due to accumulation of resentment and reaction against restrictions imposed. If that were true then, it should be doubly true now. That is the argument. It may prove fallacious but it is interesting.

certain Yankee Dr. Saunders, who's "rassling" with it. He's scattered hospitals and investigatorial stations the whole length of the valley, and perhaps he'll succeed in effecting a permanent improvement —though the microbes are fiercer to combat than the human (or inhuman) Axis aggregation.

There's this to be said—

Latin America has a very high opinion of Yankee medicine. It heads in to a North American doc the minute anything's the matter with it. It may seem as if it would hunt one of its native practitioners, as likelier to have a more intimate acquaintance with its nearby maladies, but it doesn't. It consults an American or a European. I presume it regards 'em as more scientific.

And Dentists, Too

It's especially noticeable as to dentistry.

Give a Latin American a toothache and he streaks it for a North American dentist. It's a profession that's practically monopolized south of the Rio Grande.

Well, you get off at Para—capital of the Brazilian state of Para and one of the mouths of the Amazonian mouths of the Para river.

It's a middling modern place—something you're used to.

It would be a good thing for a lot of people.

Health planning includes a program of recreation.

Find Parents Of "Mystery Baby"

Youngstown Couple Had Too Many Mouths To Feed; Police Hearing Scheduled

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 21.—The parents of Pittsburgh's mystery baby, otherwise known as "Bobby," today were disclosed to be Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leland Tyson, of Youngstown, O.

The infant, abandoned in the lobby of a downtown hotel on December 1, had been making his residence of late in a City hospital where he was being treated for an arm paralysis and a black eye.

According to the parents' story, "Bobby" whose real name is George Leland Tyson, aged 2½, was abandoned because "there were just too many mouths to feed" and the father couldn't find employment.

Today, both parents were scheduled for a police hearing, but last night they poured out their story to reporters during a happy reunion with their baby.

"It's a tough life," said the father, 27, an iron worker by trade. "Living conditions are tough. One day we had chicken, the next day feathers.

"This whole story started in Florida where I met my wife—and married her. She was only 13 when I met her and was working in a cigar factory. We were married in December 1938.

"We lived for awhile in San Diego, Calif., where our first child was born, Carolyn Gail, now 3½. I got a job at Consolidated Aircraft spraying paint but got sick and had to leave.

"I'm an iron worker by trade and came East to Youngstown but just couldn't get work. B'rrr, that's what we call little George, needed medical attention and we couldn't afford it, so we thought the best thing to do was to leave him where he could be found and adequately cared for."

More Restricted War Zones Are Ordered

(Special To The News)

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Vital sensitive defense installations, plants and areas along the eastern seaboard were further protected today by the creation of additional Prohibited and Restricted Zones, when Lieut. General Hugh A. Drum, Commanding General of the Eastern Defense Command and First Army, announced the issuance of Public Proclamation No. 3.

Public Proclamation No. 1, issued May 16, established the Eastern Military Area and dealt with the dimout.

On September 7 Public Proclamation No. 2 was issued, creating certain Prohibited and Restricted Zones.

Prohibited Zones consisted largely of camps, posts and stations, and vital defense plants. All persons were prohibited from entering, remaining in, or leaving any Prohibited Zone, except by special individual permit.

Restricted Zones, with few exceptions, consisted of beach areas along the Atlantic seaboard. The general public was barred from Restricted Zones during the period from sunset to sunrise.

Adds Zones

The Proclamation issued today adds numerous Prohibited Zones and creates 149 inland Restricted Zones. Included in the Restricted Zones designated by this Proclamation are bridges, viaducts, tunnels, railroad yards and operating and maintenance facilities, motor freight areas, airports and air fields, dams, reservoirs, flumes, conduits, coastal areas, harbor facilities and installations, and areas fronting on ports and harbors. Hereafter no person in any Restricted Zone, whether in a beach area or inland, may possess bombs, explosives, radio transmitting sets, codes or ciphers, pictures, sketches, drawings or maps of military installations, equipment or similar articles. In addition to previous restrictions imposed in Proclamation No. 2 penalties are provided for acts of vandalism and illegal possession in respect to military proclamations and other publications issued with Federal authority.

Public Proclamation No. 3 also amends the location and extent of certain Prohibited and Restricted Zones created by the September 7 Proclamation.

Food Gifts Welcome To City Dwellers

Foods Commonplace On Farm Are Luxuries In City, Says Colorado Expert

(International News Service)

FORT COLLINS, Colo., Dec. 21.—City relatives and friends of farmers are clamoring today for gifts of food which may be commonplace in the farmhouse but are luxury items around the city dining room centerpiece.

That's a Christmas hint to the farmer, according to Miss Elizabeth Grawemeyer, home economics expert for Colorado State college.

A sack of potatoes artistically decorated or a little flower pot lined with a paper doily and filled with a cheese spread will be equally well received as gifts in this wartime year of pinched food distribution, Miss Grawemeyer said.

TO REFOREST AREA

Twenty-five thousand trees, red pines, white pines and larches, will be planted on the grounds formerly owned by the Lehigh Portland Cement company next spring. This action was taken Saturday morning when the Lawrence county conservators met with the chairman, Judge W. Walter Braham, in the court house.

The action is one that will be applauded universally. The land is that from which the limestone has been taken and is now in the nature of waste land. In 10 years time the area to be covered, about 30 acres, will have a green carpet over it. In 35 or 40 years the trees will be near timber size and a valuable crop of timber will be harvested.

The action of the conservators is the kind of action that should be emulated over the county. For too long we have taken timber from the land and done nothing about it in the way of reforesting. In the past 15 years the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has done much in the way of reforesting, but there are still millions of acres in the state that should be reforested.

The plan of the conservators is to enlist the Boy Scouts next spring and plant the trees. Twenty-five thousand trees seems like a lot, but there is room in Lawrence county for a million more.

Health Talks

By DR. W. A. WOMER

HAIR

Each hair on your body grows from a hair follicle. These follicles are present at birth.

There are a definite number of them. They are just like fingers or legs. There are just so many. Nothing you can do will make any more of them.

Each follicle has one hair. You cannot make it have any more than one. You might just as well try to grow an extra finger.

When a hair follicle or pore is destroyed it is gone. It is just like cutting off a finger. Massage, or electricity, or vacuum cups, or hair tonic or shaving will not bring it back. There will never be a hair in that follicle.

We do not know the cause of baldness. Don't spend your good money on things to make your hair come back. Live a good life, be kind and generous and merciful. People will be so much pleased with your face that they will not notice your shiny dome.

Sometimes hair grows where it is not wanted. The best and cheapest way to get rid of it is to shave it off. The electric needle will destroy the follicles. The treatment is expensive and somewhat painful.

Shaving does not increase the number of hairs. It does not cause hair to grow faster or coarser or thicker.

Women can shave regularly and not be afraid of making the hair blacker or stiffer.

There is no way to keep hair from getting gray or to restore the color. Let your hair get gray naturally. You will look better that way. The face matches the hair. If you use dye, you are perhaps the only one to be fooled.

TARNISHED SILVERWARE

To clean tarnished silverware quickly and easily, just rub it briskly with a soft chamois leather skin. This will make the silverware as bright as if it were new. If very tarnished, wash first in warm, soapy water, dry and then polish.

Another Group Of Men From City Depart For Camp

Sub-Zero Temperatures Delays Train's Arrival For Half Hour This Morning

Another group of city men, those called up for duty by City Board Two, who were examined at Erie on December 14, departed for New Cumberland, Pa., to begin their army duties this morning.

Despite the intense cold, there was a large crowd on hand to bid them farewell, but they crowded the station waiting room, being driven inside by the intense cold when the train which was to take them on the first leg of their journey as far as Pittsburgh, was delayed for a half hour by trouble in the Sharon district where the train makes up.

They were given farewell honors by the Lawrence County Service Men's Aid Association, with Capt. Carl Andreasen addressing the men. Mrs. Myrtle Dantzler, representing the Colored Service Men's Aid Association was also present and presented gifts to two colored youths who left with the same detachment, but who will go to Camp Meade to begin their military training.

ADOPT SALARY RAISER TODAY

Bearing in mind the high cost of living plus a desire to retain employes, city council met this morning in city hall and adopted an ordinance increasing employes' wages approximately 10 per cent.

They also partly restored the salary formerly paid officials by a "raise" of approximately 10 per cent. Because of state law, present officials cannot receive it. However, it will be paid future elected officials.

Many Nazi Planes Downed By Yanks

American Bomber Raid Over Germany Shoots Down Many German Planes

By WILLIAM WADE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Dec. 21—American bomber crews, who participated in the heavy and devastating raid against Romilly-Sur-Seine, were believed today to have inflicted the heaviest losses on the German air force since the sky battles which accompanied the Allied assault on Dieppe.

The flyers gave the Nazis a good old-fashioned Yankee drubbing as they tangled in some of the bitterest aerial fighting of the war.

While a spokesman for the Eighth United States Air Force described the sky fighting and bombing as "satisfactory," the flyers themselves used a pet phrase in describing the hits on targets.

"Sur Le Schnozzle," a combination of French and Americana, is the way the Yankee airmen described the bombing results. In other words, "right on the nose!"

While official figures on the number of enemy planes destroyed or damaged was not immediately disclosed, informed observers believe the final tally will reveal that the Nazis' loss will be the greatest since the Dieppe operations last August. At that time, the Germans lost 91 planes and twice that number is damaged craft.

Shoe Repair Shop Damaged By Fire

Loss Of Around $1,000 Sustained In Fire Sunday Evening On South Side

Damage of approximately $1,000 was done, Sunday at 5:35 p. m., when fire originating from a stoker in the cellar of the building at 223 East Long avenue, occupied on the first floor by the Reliable Shoe Repair Shop, and by apartments on the second floor, burned its way up through the floor from the cellar and was checked at the second floor. The principal loss was to the shoe repair equipment and building.

At 9 p. m. Sunday, firemen were called to the home of H. G. Gerlach, of 1125 Dewey avenue, where it was found there were some bricks out of the chimney, allowing smoke to come out into the house. A dangerous fire hazard exists, firemen reported.

At 2:05 p. m. Sunday, firemen were summoned to the home of Mina Waldman, of 215 Hazelcroft, when paper and lint in the hot air pipe caught fire. There was no loss.

The late Florenz Ziegfeld was born in Chicago of German Catholic parentage.

Hold Parents Of Deserted Child For Court Action

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 21.—In tears and admittedly "not proud" of their act, the parents of Pittsburgh's "mystery baby" who were arrested after a fiction-like search that went to the west coast and back, were held for court action today by Magistrate W. H. K. McDiarmaid.

With lowered heads, Doris Helen Tyson, 18-year-old mother of three, and ex-convict Robert Leland Tyson, 27, both of Youngstown, O., explained that they thought their son deserved a "better home," and accordingly abandoned him in the hallway of a downtown hotel on December 1.

Tyson, who earlier had said that he stole cheap jewelry on the west coast so that his family could eat—and went to San Quentin prison as a result—told the magistrate:

"We didn't know what to do. My wife has three children now, and is expecting a fourth. My work has been unsteady. We thought it was for the best."

Evangelist Cadle Dies In Indiana

Funeral Wednesday In Giant Cadle Tabernacle At Indianapolis

(International News Service)

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 21.—Funeral services will be held Wednesday for the Rev. E. Howard Cadle, 58, nationally known evangelist and minister, who died at his home here late yesterday. Rites will be held in the giant tabernacle which bears his name and which was dedicated in 1921 by another great evangelist, Gypsy Smith.

Cadle, who combined practical business methods with the spread of religious teachings, had crossed the nation several times in his private plane to promote his work. He bought and distributed radio receiving sets by the hundreds and located them in churches throughout Kentucky, Tennessee and other southern mountain states so congregations could hear his radio addresses.

His huge tabernacle here seats 10,000 persons and was erected at a cost of $315,000 in the style of the famous Alamo mission at San Antonio, Tex.

Police Action Nets $345 Over Week End

Apparently city police are playing Santa Claus to "General Revenue", the "mythical man" who pays the city bills, because they were active during the week-end and the city was enriched several hundred dollars through abandonment of cash bail pieces or fines. One week ago the city realized approximately $600 from police activities. The amount collected was $345.

Among their activities were the following:

Poolroom at 1224 South Mill street, raided Saturday night where gambling allegedly was in progress. Sylvester Conti was charged with being the proprietor. He placed a cash bond of $100 and each of eight visitors placed a cash bond of $10 for police court. None appeared in court Sunday.

Billiard hall at 26 West Long avenue was raided Saturday night. It was charged gaming was under way. Joe Augustine was accused of being the proprietor and placed a $100 forfeit. Six visitors each placed $10 cash bonds also for court appearance Sunday. None appeared for trial.

OHIO GIRL WEDS SOLDIER IN ARMY CAMP BY PHONE

(International News Service)

FINDLAY, O. — When Alexander Graham Bell put his finishing touches on the telephone he probably thought a lot of things would happen, but it is doubtful whether he suspected his invention would become an accomplice in the holy state of matrimony.

But that it did. In Findlay, Miss Marjorie Crawfis, pretty waitress just turned 19, was united in wedlock with Pvt. John Wittebort in an army camp at San Francisco. The rites were performed by Rev. Joel Wareing, an army chaplain on the California end of the line.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB

Cosmopolitan club members will not meet Tuesday evening of this week. The next meeting will be held at the Y. W. C. A. on Tuesday, December 29.

NeCaHi Jr. Girl Reserves devoted their club meeting to packing a box to be sent to Japanese-American Girl Reserves in the relocation center in Utah. Each girl sent a Christmas gift. Part of the club made Christmas stockings and filled them with candy. Others copied Christmas carols and Christmas games. Another group made paper angels for table decorations. This Christmas box will enable the Girl Reserves at the center to have a Christmas party.

In carrying out this project, the New Castle Girl Reserves cooperated with the National Y. W. C. A. and its suggestion that Girl Reserves of different races and nationalities in the United States show their friendliness at Christmas. Mary Esther Coates and Della Deep were chairmen of the project. Club advisers are Miss Janet Brennamen, Miss Elizabeth Yingling and Miss Helen Hazen.

At the next club meeting a Christmas program will be held. Della Deep is chairman.

Ben Franklin and George Washington Girl Reserves have completed their Christmas service project of making favors for the Christmas trays in the Jameson Memorial hospital. Mrs. Pearl Johnson and Miss Nettie Mann are club advisers of George Washington Girl Reserves and Mrs. Margaret Sanfilippo and Miss Thelma Howell are advisers of Ben Franklin.

The Senior NeCaHi Girl Reserves were unable to give a Christmas party for the children in the Neighborhood House, so voted a sum of money to be given to the childden, and will plan to give them a party in the spring. The club attended the All-Association Christmas program at the Y. W. C. A. for their Christmas meeting.

Members of the NeCaHi Junior Girl Reserves devorated the auditorium and front parlor of the Y. W. C. A. for the Christmas programs.

No Inquest About Chandler's Death

Once "Million Dollar Kid" Suicide In Florida, According To Police

(International News Service)

PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 21.—They planned no inquest today in the death of Byron D. Chandler, once known on Broadway as "the million dollar kid" because of his profligate spending.

Four times divorced and now alone and forgotten, the 63-year-old Chandler, who made even blase Broadway gasp by his reckless and spectacular spending, shot himself on the pier of his showplace winter home, "the plantation," according to Police Lieut. L. O. Ecklund.

His body toppled into Lake Worth where a newspaper carrier later discovered it floating. A bullet wound was in his chest.

Chandler was said to have brooded since his conviction in Miami last year on a charge of sending a lewd letter through the mails. He also was reported to have been in ill health. He was under a suspended sentence of a year and a day, and had paid a $1,000 fine for postal violation.

When only 23, Chandler descended on Broadway's cabarets with a million dollar legacy from his grandfather and another million from his father, both of whom had been New England financiers.

He soon was vying with Harry K. Thaw, another playboy of that gay era. He entered a swank restaurant by crashing down through its plate glass dome, then promptly hauled out his wallet and demanded to know what the bill was for his unconventional entrance.

He was said to have ridden into the lobbies of staid Boston hotels on a horse on more than one occasion during his days at Harvard.

Your Country Needs Your "Christmas Money"

Instead of those frivolous things we used to send each other—things that expressed our warmth of the Christmas spirit but sometimes weren't much use—our country asks us this year to do one simple thing:

Give United States War Bonds as Christmas presents. Give as many as you can. Give them because they are the most valuable presents you can offer . . . gifts that increase in dollar value every year until maturity. Give them because your country needs the money you invest in them—needs it now, this very day, to pay for the tanks and planes and ships our boys must have.

Give U. S. War Bonds and you give doubly . . . you provide American soldiers with the equipment to win, and you give your loved ones the safest investment in the world.

This Christmas—give U. S. WAR SAVINGS BONDS

Phila. Scrap Campaign Nets 1,250,000 Keys

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA. — Junior and the kid next door joined Philadelphia's scrap drive and in one day found 1,250,000 keys—from big iron ones to the little brass ones that open diaries—and then started to look around for bigger things.

The twelve ton of keys, contributed by 250,000 school children, were turned over to the Salvation Army, which will purchase a mobile canteen for servicemen with the profits.

Top rating went to a Northeast High School sophomore who turned in 1,183 keys strung on a wire, but 11-year-old Bill Hirst went to the most trouble. He dropped the only key he could find in a coal bin and spent four hours looking for it.

Some of the kids couldn't find keys without a lock, so one little girl brought in a set of tin dishes while a little boy threw in his electric train—tracks and all.

Two keys came into one school with a note attached:

"These keys once unlocked the doors of a beautiful house in Vienna.

"Please send them back to Hitler as fast as you can."

War Secretary Talks Shop With Plane Mechanics

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

RANDOLPH FIELD, Tex. — Although a crowded schedule lay ahead of Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson on his recent tour of Army Air Force bases in this area, he was not too busy to remember the important role being played by the aircraft mechanic.

At the West Point of the Air Secretary Stimson requested that his party of visiting celebrities stop long enough for him to talk with Staff Sergeants Frank L. Laza of Kingsville, Tex., and J. R. Smith of Hoxie, Ark. two mechanics who were working on a basic training plane.

Accompanying Mr. Stimson was Robert A. Lovett, assistant secretary of war for air, who also chatted with the mechanics.

FT. RILEY, Kan.—Talk about family background for a military career, a corporal of the 9th Armored Division at Ft. Riley has one of the best.

The corporal is Jack Nemerov whose uncle is General Gregory Zhukov, the Russian commander who shoved the Germans around a bit when they attempted to take over Moscow.

Corp. Nemerov said his uncle also started at the bottom as a buck private in the Russian army. Now the uncle is chief of the Soviet general staff and is Stalin's first vice commissar for defense.

Flier Sends Bonds Home To Mother

(International News Service)

DALLAS, Tex.—E. W. Hix, navy radioman third class, believed in purchasing War Bonds. But he couldn't see why his mother kept asking him to send the bonds home for safe-keeping.

He carried four of them in his pocket during the Jap raid on Pearl Harbor and Wake Island. They were still with him when his plane went aloft in the battle of Midway Island.

The bomber to which Hix was assigned was shot down. For four and a half days the crew, unharmed, awaited their eventual rescuers.

Back at Pearl Harbor once more, Hix wrote his mother immediately—enclosing the bonds.

"I understand now why it's better for me to send them home for safe-keeping," he wrote, "after keeping them in my pocket for four days while I doubted whether I'd ever get home again."

'Heat Cops' Help To Conserve Oil In Mass. College

(International News Service)

SOUTH HADLEY, Mass.—Humor at the expense of "heat cops" is "out" at Mount Holyoke College for the duration as the "heat cops" today prepared to swing into action to start the college's oil conservation campaign.

The girls are deadly serious in their work of last year when they helped save 26,159 gallons of heating oil.

"Heat cops" go around early each morning at 5:45 o'clock closing windows.

Sometimes they stumble over the furniture in the rooms and they must be careful not to send breakable material or bric-a-brac crashing to the floor.

Last year a few practical jokers spread sticky raspberry jam on the window sills, with which some "heat cops" formed an unwilling alliance. But all of the girls at Mount Holyoke are solidly behind the war effort and there will be none of that this year. The big objective is to save oil and give every assistance to the hard-working "heat cops."

Morgenthau Reports Huge Sale Of Bonds

Expect Nine Billion Dollars Goal In Victory Drive To Be Passed By Two Billion

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Americans have lent their government more than $10,000,000,000 this month in the greatest outpouring of money for loans of any similar period of United States history.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced this today "as the sort of news that Axis leaders dread to hear."

Another borrowed billion is expected by the end of December. This, with taxes and other collections of about $2,500,000,000, promises to bring the treasury's December receipts to about $13,500,000,000, a sizeable chunk of the national income of $117,000,000,000 estimated for this year by the commerce department.

Set 9-Billion Goal

The treasury had set a goal of $9,000,000,000 in its December Victory Fund drive. With this figure already surpassed by $1,229,000,000, Morgenthau raised the sights to $11,000,000,000.

"I am deeply gratified by the superb public response to the financial needs of our country in this war," Morgenthau said. "It will reassure all soldiers who are fighting the good fight.

"Much more than $10,000,000,000 will be needed, and I urge every American to dig deep into his pockets and buy more of the securities that will remain available until December 23, and the tax notes and savings bonds that will continue to be on sale."

The treasury said the December drive had succeeded "not only because of the amount involved, but also because of heavy purchases of securities by other than commercial banks, the soundest and least inflationary method of treasury borrowing." Of total borrowing to the close of business Saturday, 45 per cent was by commercial banks and 55 per cent by other investors.

CHANUTE FIELD, Ill. — The ground-crew of men of the air forces who "keep 'em flying" at Chanute Field and the other stations of the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command were enjoying a salute today from Illustrator William Heaslip, whose famed brush has created a new poster, "O. K. for K. O. in Tokyo". It portrays a group of weary service mechanics, their tools at last put down, watching a flight of combat planes they have just readied, winging off to blast the enemy.

PUBLIC IS BEGGED TO STAY AT HOME

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—The railroads, instead of seeking holiday traffic, this year even begged the public in large advertisements "Please don't travel during the holidays."

From the appearance today of waiting rooms, which were packed with crowds clamoring for reservations, and with baggage rooms packed high with luggage, many of the public disregarded the pleas. Railroad men said it was the greatest volume of passenger traffic in their recollection.

Scores were unable to get reservations either on trains or planes.

"Rose O'Day" Bags Five Over Romilly

American Flying Fortress Returns From Bitter Battle Damaged But Safe

By DIXIE TIGHE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

AN AMERICAN FLYING FORTRESS BASE SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Dec. 21.—Crew members of one Flying Fortress that took part in Sunday's allied raid on Romilly-Sur-Seine rested today after one of the bitterest battles of the air war over France, they added five more Axis planes to their score.

Piloted by Capt. Kenneth Wallick of Wrightsville, Pa., the Fortress survived attacks by no less than 75 German planes to limp back to their base minus a propellor with two engines out of action.

But the gunners of the ship—named the "Rose O'Day"—had brought their score of enemy planes shot down to nine by blasting five Nazi fighters. They'd accounted for four on a previous bombing mission.

Wallick climbed out of his ship, his flaming red hair flying in the slipstream and managed to sign his name almost legibly to his report stating that all crewmen were safe.

His men had fought through a terrific ordeal, feeling the might of the enemy's air aim out in full force. The "Rose O'Day" came in for more than her share of attention from German pilots, as the smoke streaming from her two damaged engines made a target clearly visible for miles around.

Wallick was loud in his praise of his crewmen.

Crews flying out of this Fortress station 24 enemy planes to their credit, but there is indication that the total allied bag in yesterday's raid will reach a record figure. Reports from all stations are still incomplete but they are now being coordinated and carefully checked in preparation for an official statement of Axis plane losses.

American airmen here were cheered by the late news that Lieut. Bruce Barton of Greenville, S. C., and his crew, believed to have been lost in the raid, made a successful crash landing on the English side of the channel.

New Marines To Be Summoned Later

Boys between 17 and 18 years of age may enlist in the Marine Corps here now and then wait until after the holidays for their call to service, Sergts. Thomas E. Quaill and James A. Final, explained today.

"Those taking out applications will not be summoned until sometime in January," they said.

Many sailing vessels were once in the service of molasses companies. Some of them, as was the old custom, had their ownership divided into 64 shares. In this way the hazards of the voyage were spread. Officers of the company, as well as outsiders, would invest in one or more shares in the vessel.

Gordon said that hoarders were responsible for the butter rationing.

Cancel 115,000 Pieces Of Mail At Post Office Here On Saturday

Evening hours for the parcel post and stamp windows at New Castle post office were ordered for tonight and Tuesday and Wednesday nights as postal officials disclosed that letter postage cancellations for each of the past five consecutive days have soared over the 100,000 mark.

Postmaster William R. Hanna, anxious to co-operate with the mailers, said the windows during the next three days will remain open until 8 p. m.

Saturday Load Heaviest

Heaviest drain on the automatic postage cancelling machine came Saturday when 115,000 pieces of letter mail were handled.

The city yesterday received one regular delivery of Christmas cards and one delivery of parcel post.

Working overtime, the entire mailing force shaped up the heavy incoming loads yesterday to expedite this morning's deliveries. Officials reported that everything appeared to be moving along smoothly—and 51 temporary workers today were helping regulars with the job.

The postmaster said several senior high school youths were enlisted this year inasmuch as the older extras were not available.

Card Mailing Deadlines

All city-addressed Christmas cards in the mails by noon of Thursday, officials said, will be delivered in time for Christmas.

All gifts in the mail room at 8 a. m. Christmas morning—gifts for New Castle delivery—will be dispatched to the homes on that day.

But Friday, Christmas Day, will be a full holiday for most of the employes, Postmaster Hanna said. "They deserve that holiday alright," he added.

Revenue figures for the December period promise to exceed by large percentages the recipts of past Decembers, but officials so far have been too busy with holiday operations to give much thought to them.

Pastor Offers Sugar To The Government

(International News Service)

ITALY, Tex.—The Rev. Calvin Jenkins has enough sugar to last "for the duration," he says, and it didn't cost him a cent.

Mr. Jenkins, who serves four Baptist congregations in Ellis County, Texas, was on the receiving end of a recent "pounding" and his congregations, according to annual custom, filled his larder with many "pounds" of foodstuff. Among these pounds of edibles were a large number of packages of sugar.

The pastor, when he applied for his ration card, suddenly realized he had plenty of sugar on hand "for the duration," and promised to "divvy" with the government if necessary.

PUTS FIRST-AID TRAINING INTO IMMEDIATE USE

(International News Service)

WICHITA FALLS, Texax.—Sheppard Field Corp. Joseph P. McGuire of Washington, D. C., displays the resourcefulness sought in every soldier.

McGuire was one of the first noncoms to finish the Red Cross first aid instructors' course at Sheppard field. Shortly afterward his barrack was quarantined for measles. Instead of just curling up with an improving book for the duration, he put his training to use during the confinement giving first aid lessons to his barrack mates.

Thirty-two men who were quarantined with McGuire completed the standard and advanced courses and became the first class on the field to get their certificates.

Oregon Beavers Open Attack On Private Homes

(International News Service)

BEND, Ore.—Beavers, staging an all-out offensive against trees and shrubbery in Bend and nearby communities, have forced residents of this central Oregon town to adapt a second line of defense—second only to defense against the Japs.

The beavers, from the nearby Deschutes River, have apparently thrown caution and strategy to the winds and are staging frontal attacks on private residents and public parks indiscriminately. Hasty bulwarks have been thrown up by civilians and city officials in the form of wire netting around the bases of valuable shade trees, but the busy little animals are persistent reports from the combat zone indicate. One home owner found a beaver gnawing a tree on his front lawn. The animal was not frightened when caught in the beams of a flashlight, the citizen reported, but went right on wih his work.

So far activities of the night raiders have been confined to smaller cottonwoods and poplars, but officials are becoming gray-haired over the possibility of an attack on the giant pines in public Drake Park.

WAR IS HARD ON DAINTY FEET OF BRITISH WOMEN

(International News Service)

LONDON — The war is producing bigger feet—at least among British women.

Store-keepers find that demands for women's shoes below the size of four are practically non-existent.

This is attributed to the vogue of the low-heeled shoes which tend to broaden the feet and because women are standing longer and walking more than they did before the war.

Members of the A.T.E., W.A.A.F., W.R.N.S., nursing and Civil-Defense units who formerly wore high-heeled shoes for every occasion now find that they need a larger size than they did in peace-time.

NAZIS WANT DOGS

STOCKHOLM—German authorities are today advertising in the Quisling Norwegian press for "good dogs as watchdogs in the German military establishmens." The scheme is not meeting with much success, however, as it is well known that the Germans have used dogs exclusively on the Russian front to run ahead of troops and clear minefields.

Pietro Guardi, who died in 1912, trained his memory so highly that, although he had had no schooling, he memorized the 70,000 words of Dante's "Divine Comedy."

RECEIVES FATHER'S HONOR MEDAL

Declaring that Rear Admiral Daniel J. Callaghan "was a good friend of mine," President Roosevelt, above, presents the Congressional Medal of Honor posthumously to the officer who was killed during the great night naval battle in the Solomons. The medal was received by Admiral Callaghan's son, Lieut. Judson Callaghan, right, also a Navy officer, at the White House.

Nazi Bombsight 'Not So Hot'

Brig. Gen. Victor H. Stamm (right) of the U. S. Army Air Force in the Middle East, and Capt. Selby M. Frank, ordnance officer, examine a captured Nazi bombsight somewhere in Lybia. Gen. SHIPMATES MEET FOR FIRST TIME IN NEWS OFFICE

(International News Service)

FORT WORTH, Tex.—They were shipmates on the ill-fated U. S. S. Lexington—but they met for the first time in a Fort Worth newspaper office.

Calvin Reeves, seaman first class, and J. T. Milam, pharmacist's mate, both have served a year in the Navy since their enlistments in Fort Worth. Both were aboard the Lexington when it sank after internal explosions, and both swung their way along a line from the aircraft carrier to a rescuing destroyer.

Back in the United States, they were granted furloughs and headed for home. And when they walked into the Fort Worth newspaper office about the same time, they finally got acquainted.

'ARMY DOING ALL RIGHT'

(International News Service)

ELGIN FIELD, Fla.—This may be a little confusing, but a headline in the Elgin Eagle, weekly publication of this army training base, read:

"Army Is Doing All Right In The Army Here."

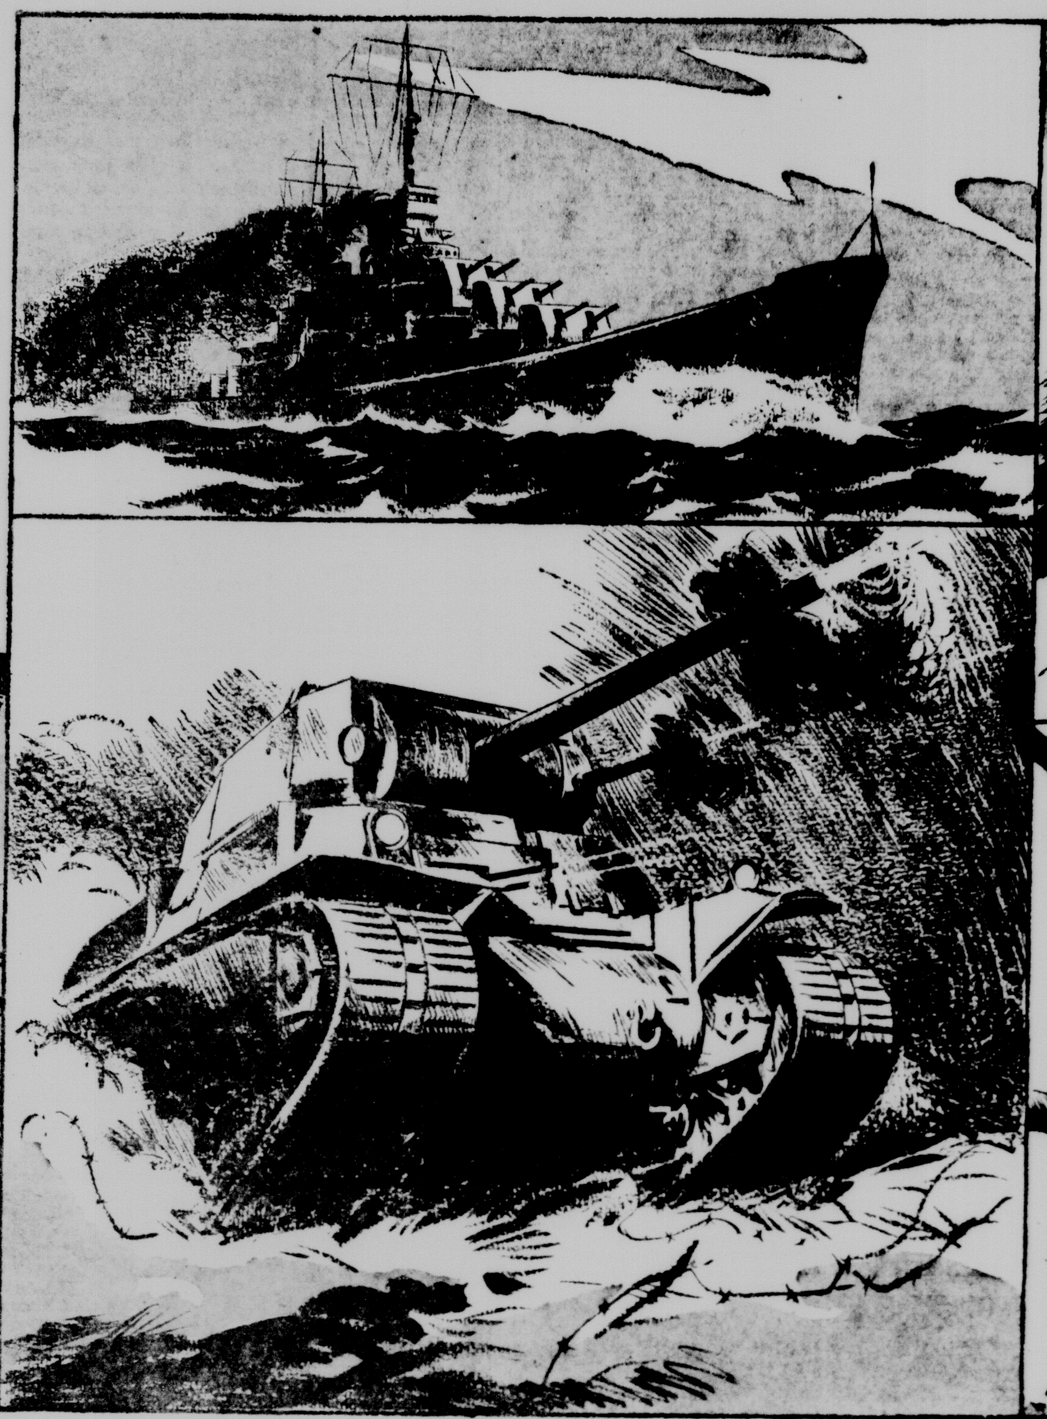
"Elgin Field has a soldier named Army, Wilfred J., and he recently was promoted from private first class to corporal."

Nature balances things. If she makes one brother ornery, she gives him a knack of making the others take care of him.

British Internees in Africa Return Home

Here are some of the more than five hundred officers and men of the H.M.S. Manchester, who were interned in North Africa, after their safe arrival at a British port following the Allied occupation of French North Africa. The release of DeGaulle soldiers imprisoned in French Africa is now under discussion. (Central Press)

Here's what he's doing...



And here's what you can do to help him!

When his basic training is over and he's sent to fight the hard hitting Nazis and Japs, you want him to have the finest fighting equipment a man ever had . . . and plenty of it.

Well, that takes money... real money. It means that YOU and YOU . . . every one of us back home will have to dig in. We will have to go much deeper than we have in the past. Every dollar and dime we have that does not actually go for food, clothing and shelter should go for Bonds.

New Castle must raise an additional $5,400,000 by January 1st.

VICTORY BONDS . . . that's what our government calls them . . . and that's what they stand for. No one of us doubts that our side will win. It's just a matter of time. How long? That's up to you. Our boys are ready to go. All they need is more equipment. Dig in and LOAN your government your money.

Let's get this war business over . . . so our local boys will be home for Christmas in '43.

Campaign Workers Jubilant At Ellwood City's Response In Bond Drive

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 21.—Ellwood City again takes the county limelight when with 10 days more to go she exceeded the War Bond goal set for this community by $139,173.75. The amount raised here so far is $679,173.75 and the quota set for Ellwood City was $540,000. R. Charles Stiefel, Jr., chairman of the campaign, and his co-chairman, H. R. Smith, stated today that they were jubilant the way Ellwood City had responded to the request of Uncle Sam and that by the end of the month the totals will run around $750,000.

The above figure is exclusive of the series E payroll deduction plan in effect in all the local mills which totals well around 80 to 100 thousand dollars a month.

Joel S. McKee, president of the First National Bank of Lawrence County and chairman of the Lawrence County Victory Fund committee, wrote a congratulatory letter to Chairman Stiefel today and the last paragraph is as follows:

"It is needless for me to say that your loyalty and patriotism in Ellwood City have shown their predominance in this campaign, being the first to go 'over the top'. We believe that it has spurred the citizens of New Castle to renewed efforts in putting our quota here."

Bonds purchased this month here in Ellwood City will still count toward the December quota. The local Victory Fund committee will stay intact and keep brushed up on the government investments as another campaign will be held in April.

Wounded Marines in Parade

These three marines were members of the crew of the U. S. cruiser San Francisco, which smashed a number of Japanese war vessels in a night battle off Guadalcanal. Recuperating from wounds received in the battle, they are shown riding a jeep at the San Francisco parade honoring the ship and her personnel. The leathernecks are (l. to r.): Sergt. John Egan, Corp. W. J. Ramsy and Pvt. C. C. Spencer. A soldier is driving the jeep. This is a phonephoto. (Central Press)

U. S. Plane Noses Over on Soft African Airport

This muddy airport at Safi, French Morocco, captured by U. S. troops when they invaded Africa, made the going tough for American pilots. Members of the U. S. Air Force are laying a metal strip for the take-off of the torpedo bomber in the foreground. A navy dive bomber (background) rests on its back after nosing over. Ruts plowed through the mud show the cause of its spill. (Central Press)

Jap Pilot 'Sings' in Solomons

Captured when his Zero plane was shot down in a dogfight over Guadalcanal, a Jap pilot (left) is questioned by U. S. Marine Intelligence officers. Surprising as it may seem, he displayed a willingness to talk. His information, of course, was checked thoroughly against that of other Jap captives to make certain that it was authentic. This is an official U. S. Marine Corps photo. (Central Press)

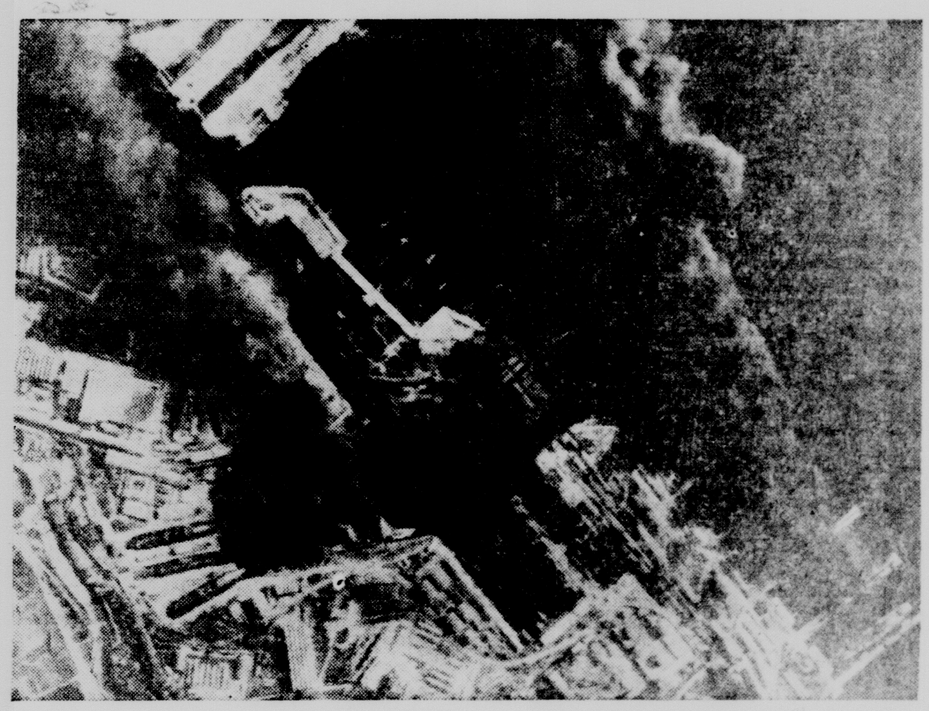
In recognition of meritorious service in inventing a new fragmentation bomb, Gen. MacArthur has awarded the Purple Heart Medal to Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney (above), commander of the Allied air forces in the southwest Pacific. The new bombs effectively broke up a Jap landing attempt at the mouth of the Mambare River in New Guinea. (Central Press)

First Air View of Scuttled French Fleet

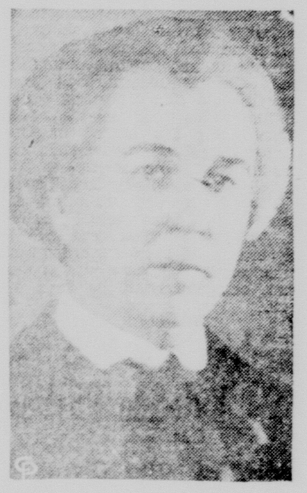


Here's the first air view of part of the French Fleet that was scuttled at Toulon, France. The photo, radioed from London, was made by an R.A.F. reconnaissance plane the day after the Nazis grabbed Toulon and the fleet was scuttled. A number of the ships can be seen burning and sending huge columns of smoke into the air. The battleship Strasbourg, lower right corner, is one of the ships on fire. The upper deck, British officials say, is not submerged but there is evidence to show that the vessel is grounded. (Central Press)

Yanks Play Santa Claus to British Children

U. S. soldiers stationed in England and Ireland have formed the habit of hoarding their rationed candy so that they could distribute it among the children before a holiday. This picture shows that the children are more than grateful to the Yanks for their spirit. This scene will be repeated on Xmas and coming holidays. (Central Press)

Faces Investigation



Following a declaration from the bench by Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone that he would ask the FBI to investigate Frank Lloyd Wright, prominent architect, because he may be "obstructing the war," Wright denied that he ever had advised students at his architectural colony in Spring Green, Wis., to avoid military service. Judge Stone made his statement after Earl Weston, one of Wright's students, had pleaded guilty in federal court in Madison, Wis., to a charge of failing to report for induction.

You Might Call This Head-ing for Victory

We've already punned enough in the heading above this photo, so we'll just add the necessary facts. Woods, Lyndhurst, N. J.; David J. Hamilton, Buffalo, N. Y.; Edward J. Garland, Newark, N. J.; Fred C. Fletcher, Troy, N. Y.; Thomas M. Farrell, Dayton, Ohio; and Franklin S. Fryfogle, Alliance, Pa.

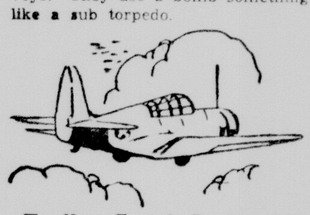
What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The Torpedo Bombing plane has been developed to a high state of perfection and efficiency by our Navy. They have been used most efficiently to scatter and destroy both enemy fighting ships and convoys. They use a bomb something like a sub torpedo.



The Navy Torpedo Bomber costs approximately $188,000. Our plane factories are building them at an amazing rate of construction. We need many of them and must pay for them through the purchase of War Bonds. You and your neighbors can help buy Torpedo Bombers for the Navy if you invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day.

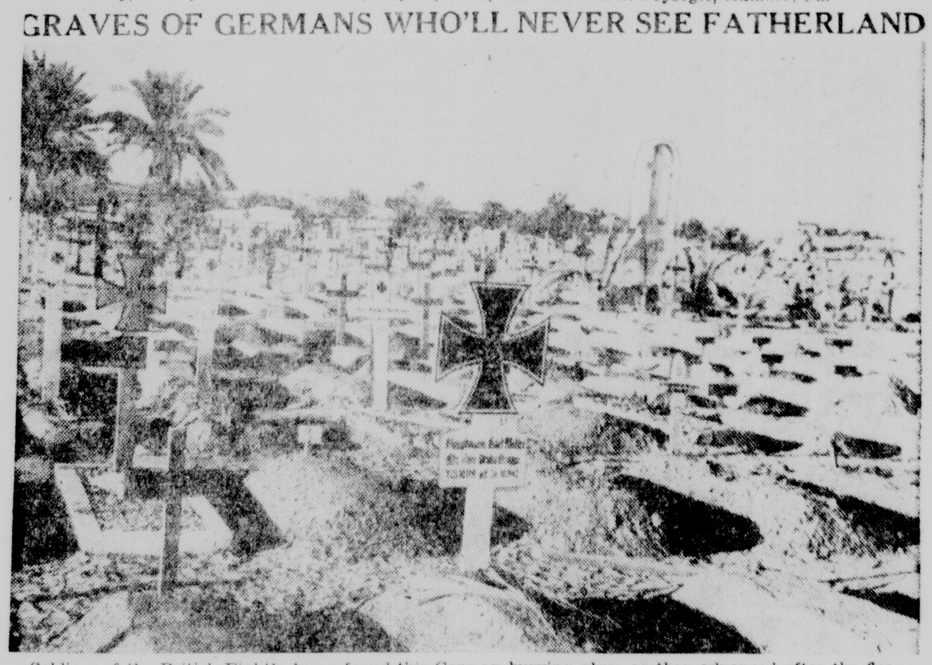
GRAVES OF GERMANS WHO'LL NEVER SEE FATHERLAND



Soldiers of the British Eighth Army found this German burying place as they advanced after the fleeing Axis armies across Libya. Only Germans are buried here, because customarily Germans and Italians are buried far apart. Grave in the foreground is that of Capt. Kurt Walter, commander of a Stuka dive bomber group, who died three days after his 31st birthday.

Young Marine Is Veteran Of Five Battles

(International News Service)

WILMINGTON, Del. — Private William Bush, of the U. S. Marines, is only 20 years old, but he is a veteran of five battles in the Pacific.

He was wounded in a lung during one action, and floated in oil-blackened water for three hours when the Yorktown became a sea casualty. As if that wasn't enough, Bush carried out all his assignments with the knowledge that his father, a merchant marine captain, had just been lost in action in the Atlantic.

The young Marine took part in the action in the Marshall and Gilbert Islands, a preliminary attack on the Solomons, the Coral Sea attack, the battle of Midway, and a second engagement in the Solomons.

Bush, home on a furlough, said it "feels fine" to be back in the states.

"My lung's okay now and I'm ready to fight again any time they need me."

Cast Iron Process Developed At State

Metallurgy Professor Develops New Production Technique For War Use

(International News Service)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Dec. 21.—The Pennsylvania State College today announced a new technique which is of great importance in the production of various types of cast iron for war purposes.

The new process was developed by Dr. Charles R. Austin, professor of metallurgy, and M. M. Lipnick of the Mechanics Metal Corporation, Pittsburgh.

The method makes it possible to determine from examination of the surface of polished and etched castings the best temperatures at which to pour different kinds of high tensile gray cast iron to obtain the greatest strength.

Information on the physical properties and on the temperature for pouring the castings was obtained directly from study of the specially prepared surface or from photographs of these iron surfaces.

Furthermore, said the college, information obtained by this method assures uniformity of castings and reduction of rejections.

Former New Galilee Woman Dies In West

Miss Minerva Craig MacGeorge, formerly of New Galilee, died in San Diego, Calif., December 15.

Miss MacGeorge's forebears were pioneers in Western Pennsylvania. Her great-grandfather built a log cabin in the wilderness, near what afterwards became the village of New Galilee. The log cabin gave way to a frame dwelling and the frame dwelling to a great brick structure built in 1846, and the old MacGeorge house still stands.

Before going to California, Miss MacGeorge was for several years a teacher in one of the schools of Fittsburgh. For the past 15 years she has resided with her sister, Mrs. J. J. Richert, in Pacific Beach, Calif.

Miss MacGeorge is survived by her sister, Mrs. J. J. Richert, and several nephews and nieces scattered throughout the United States. One nephew, Knox McCloud Young Jr., is now living in Ben Avon. He will arrange for the funeral and interment in Union Cemetery, New Galilee.

Young Lady Has Ankle Broken Skiing

Miss Ruth Kraigmont, who resides with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Shifflet of Walmo, suffered a fracture of the right ankle in two places Sunday evening while skiing near her home.

She was descending a hill when she lost her balance and was unable to free her foot from the ski, which doubled under her. She was taken to the Jameson Memorial hospital in an ambulance, where she is undergoing treatment.

Nine-State Alarm For Driver With Small Boy's Body In Car Sent Out

(International News Service)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 21.—Rhode Island state police sent out a nine-state alarm today for the driver of an automobile a gasoline station attendant said contained the body of a small boy.

The automobile licensed in the name of a Jamaica, L. I., bus driver, pulled into the gas station in Coventry last night and the driver asked to purchase gasoline. When told he couldn't get it except in an emergency, he showed the attendant the body of the child in the trunk.

State police said the attendant told him the driver of the car said he was an undertaker and was taking the child's body from New Haven, Conn., to Massachusetts. Subsequent investigation disclosed that New Haven authorities had no record of granting permission for such a removal.

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21.—Two 16-year-old boys and a man—hired as extra carriers for the Christmas rush—were under arrest in Philadelphia today because they disregarded the post office department's motto to deliver the mail despite rain, heat or cold.

Cracking under the rigors of their duties on the coldest day in six years, the trio threw away stacks of letters and cards, including hundreds of messages from service men to their families.

One youth, who said "it was too cold", hurled nine bundles of mail down two sewer inlets. Frozen and water soaked five bundles were recovered by firemen.

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—A two-a-day drills for their Rose Bowl encounter with UCLA were on tap for the Georgia Bulldogs, due to arrive in Los Angeles today.

An avid crowd of grid fans will be on hand to welcome Frankie Sinkwich and his 41 teammates at the depot, but it will be a brief glimpse as Coach Wallace Butts plans to put his charges in uniforms almost immediately.

Plans, contingent only upon the train getting in on time, call for the Bulldogs to be whisked to their Pasadena hotel for a brief rest, then to Occidental College for a workout.

The twice-daily drills are scheduled to start Tuesday and continue throughout the week.

Miami, Fla.—Boston College's footballers, who clash with the University of Alabama crimson tide in the Orange Bowl New Year's Day, today launched two-a-day sessions in preparing for the post-season classic.

Coach Myers, asserting that Alabama was way ahead of Boston College in preparation for the encounter, said the Eagles were unable to get in much practice before leaving home because of the condition of the field.

Alabama is not slated to arrive until next Sunday.

"Sports In '43"

(International News Service)

DENVER, Dec. 21.—How many of the nation's major sports will be maintained in 1943?

Well, a tip came today when Jack Carberry, sports editor of the Denver Post and well-known humorist, sent out his Christmas cards.

The cards showed Carberry astride a horse nearing a crossroads signpost marked "Sports in '43", and with these directions pointed north, east, south and west:

"Ping pong tournament"

"Girls' volley ball."

"Tiddley-wink contest."

"Marble championship."

East-West Squads Make Public Debut

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21.—The all-star east and west football squads make their public debut today as guests of honor at the Shrine's annual football game luncheon.

The teams meet New Year's Day in Kezar stadium, San Francisco, in the annual football classic for benefit of the Shriner's hospital for crippled children.

Don Faurot, the slim Missourian who takes over his first assignment as co-coach with Babe Hollingbery of the west team, arrived in town last night with three husky University of Missouri football players who helped Faurto win the Big Six conference championship this year.

The three Missouri stars, Bob Steuber, 195-pound back; Don Reece, 225-pound blocking back, and Mike Fitzgerald, 205-pound guard, complete the west squad.

The east squad, including All-Americans Dick Wildung, Dave Schreiner, Al Wistert, Bob Dove and Paul Governaeli, was due to arrive in time for the luncheon.

The teams will get down to hard work tomorrow in preparation for their New Year's Day meeting. Faurot and Hollingberry will take their west squad to its training base in Palo Alto. The east squad co-coached by Colgate's Andy Kerr and Minnesota's Dr. George Hauser, will train at Santa Clara.

FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER

INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Short and sweet: Whirlaway seems likely now to do what heretofore has been regarded as impossible—pass a million dollars in earning, barring a mishap . . . but for the war and cancellation of many big stakes it would be a cinch . . . As it is he probably will pass $600,000 in the Florida campaign, with his program including the $7,500 McLennan handicap and the $25,000 Widener, among others . . . So far the horse of the year, otherwise known as the Calumet Comet, has knocked down $560,911 . . . Trainer Ben Jones thinks Whirly has a couple of years of run left in him . . . There is a vague possibility that Alsab will run against him in the Widener at Hialeah . . . You can write your own ticket on the outcome in that case.

Pep Has Following

Willie Pep isn't the greatest fighter in the world and didn't have to be to take the New York commission version of the world featherweight championship away from California's Chalky Wright, but he has the one thing he needs to assure him of steady work around here—a big and loyal following . . . Connecticut packs the Garden to the roof for his appearances there and when he meets Allie Stolz of Newark, N. J., in an over-the-weight tussle on January 15 a turnaway crowd is likely . . . Stolz has a constituency across the river in Jersey.

Miseries in the back couldn't happen to a nicer guy than Craig Wood, who is in a local hospital with that same old trouble that hit him most dramatically last year in the Goodall round robin but couldn't keep him from winning the national open and will submit to an operation next fall.

Wood's case is proof that automobile accidents and sneezing are dangerous . . . The auto smashup several years ago brought on the injury, then a sneeze as he reached for a razor blade on the floor all but knocked him out of the open that he finally won . . . remember that one? No one gave him even the remotest chance at Fort Worth because he couldn't even finish in the Goodall, but he took another notch in the corset the doctor had fitted on him, landed in a trap with his first shot, ran into a storm that nearly washed the tournament out, but with a cigaret dangling from his lips, rolled home a beaut of a putt for a beaut of a finish.

Braddock Now Lieutenant

He and Jim Braddock . . . remember him? . . . provided sports with two of the greatest of all stories about the under dogs who came through . . . The former heavyweight champion is now Lieut. Jim Braddock, who once came off the relief rolls to fight his way back to the title . . . It seems as though fate has a way of evening things up for the good guys in the long run, after first bouncing them around for awhile.

Somebody has suggested that one way for the New York boxing commission to clear up the lightweight situation would be for the commissioners themselves to enter the tournament . . . With Abe Greene, president of the National Boxing association, as referee.

Meantime, there is talk again of the possibility of a national organization being set up to run boxing under government supervision . . . This won't come during war times, but may eventually because of the confusion prevalent most of the time over which of any numbers of parties is rightful owner of one title or another . . . Currently three titles are in dispute and there would be more but for the fact that most champions are in the services . . . Joe Louis is the one man nobody argues about at any time, except as to whether he is the best heavyweight that ever sat on the throne between naps in the sun—before Uncle Sam took him away from Uncle Mike.

ARM PAIN

Claude Passeau, Cub pitcher, throws a slider and his arm and shoulder ache for hours after each game he pitches.

Terry Moore of the Cardinals is shown, right, with Mrs. Thomas C. Sullivan and Arnold C. Bruckner, chairman of the Canal Zone War Bonds committee. Moore plans to join the U. S. Navy.

Ted Also Top Circuit Clouter; Deadened Ball Blamed For Slumps

JOHNNY PESKY IS SECOND BEST

By JOHN CASHMAN
(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—A deadened ball, made less lively by use of inferior war-time materials and the tendency to keep it in the game longer, was charged today as the cause of the American league batting slump that saw Ted Williams lead the circuit in batting with an average that had fallen off 50 points from the previous year.

This is Williams' second straight year as batting champion, the Boston Red Sox outfielder pulling up with an average of .356, official averages reveal. In nosing out John Pesky, a teammate, he rounded up 36 league-leading home runs and topped his circuit with 136 runs batted in.

Johnny Pesky, who with Williams is now in the air corps, was second in batting efficiency with .331. He became the eighth American leaguer since 1900 to make 200 or more hits in his first season in the majors. In 620 times at bat, he had a total of 205 hits.

Spence is Third

Third in the averages was Stanley Spence of Washington, who hit for an average of .323 and set the pace in triples with 15. Fourth was Joe Gordon, sparkling performer for the New York Yankees, who, though a flop in the world series, hit for an average of .322 to spark his team in the drive for the pennant. In fifth place was George Case of Washington, who averaged .320 and topped the league in most bases stolen (44), for the fourth straight year.

Nearest to Williams in the matter of home runs was Chester Laabs of St. Louis, who poled out 27. He stood way down in the batting averages, however, winding up with only .275.

Roger Cramer of Detroit tied the major league record for the most years of 600 or more times at bat, with 630. This is the eighth year he has gone to the plate 600 or more times, a record equally only by Edgar Rice of Washington and Charley Gehringer of Detroit. Spence was right on his heels with 629 times at bat.

Batting lost its tauntness thruout the league. The league average itself slumped from .266 in 1941 to .257 in '42. Despite the fact that they were in front in team hitting for the third consecutive year, the Boston Red Sox fell off from .283 to .276. In home runs, Joe DiMaggio, who suffered someth ng of an off year, fell from 30 in 1941 to 21.

Before Jimmy Fox of the Boston Red Sox left the league for good this year, he slammed out five home runs to raise his lifetime total to 524, which put him next to Babe Ruth as the greatest home run hitter in American league history.

Riggs Explains Why Bums Lost

Says Kirby Higbee (.104 Average) Was Way Off At The Platter

(International News Service)

FORT JACKSON, S. C., Dec. 21—At long last, the baffling mystery of why "dose bums" failed to make the 1942 World Series has been unraveled.

After the dust cleared and the mystifying screen penetrated, it was just as clear as London's streets during a dense fog.

The mystery of the Dodgers downfall was "cleared up" when Kirby Higbe, Brooklyn moundsman, visited third baseman Lew Riggs, newly inducted army private, at Fort Jackson.

"I know now why we didn't get into the Series, Kirby," quipped Pvt. Riggs to the notoriously weak-hitting Higbee. "Your hitting fell off."

"Fell off!" retorted the hurler. "Hell, I wasn't in a game long enough to get up at bat."

Lady Gamblers To Serve Jail Terms

New York Magistrate Grows Stern; Will Not Permit Payment Of Fine Instead

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 21—Women may be loquacious, but be that as it may lady gamblers will be unable to talk themselves out of a jail term henceforth, Magistrate Nicholas H. Pinto maintained today.

The magistrate sternly revealed his future intentions toward women found guilty of gambling in warning a woman defendant in Flatbush court in Brooklyn that in the future such culprits need not expect the alternative of paying a fine.

"Instead of gambling their time away," the court declared, "They ought to be making bandages for the Red Cross or taking an active part in some civilian defense organization."

CENTER CHURCH

Henry Wellhausen has returned from Gary, Ind.

The Women's Missionary society met recently at the home of Mrs. J. G. Weir.

Relatives have received word that Clarence Rohr, stationed at Keesler Field, Miss., is improving, having been confined to the hospital for four weeks.

The devotionals were held at 2 p. m. Those on the program were Mrs. Harry Myers, Mrs. G. V. Gibson and Mrs. J. B. Gibson. Mrs. Wm. Leslie, had charge of the business meeting.

The ladies made a comfort for Mrs. Weir. A delicious tureen dinner was enjoyed at noon. At the close of the dinner Rev. B. M. Wallace, with a very appropriate speech, gave to Mrs. Laura Miller gifts from those of the group. Mrs. Miller is leaving soon for her home in Regina Canada.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Cooled down quite a little over the week-end. Made one wonder just what those up North do when they haven't as warm houses . . . Guess maybe they can just take it. This weather however brings home the fact that Christmas is just around the corner . . . time that we set aside to do honor to the children of the Nation. Time when old Saint Nick makes his famous visit . . . this year should really be a time when the children are taught the real meaning of brotherly love . . . we must see to it that they are taught the truths of Democracy . . . there are some Nations that can't see our way of life, yet they want to dominate this nation and the people who make it up . . . We must be stronger than they and we can be if our generations to come are taught the right way of life . . . Church, no matter what faith you believe, does a lot in teaching the right from the wrong. We must, and we shall keep up our end while the boys out there taking it on the chin hold up their end . . . Come on fellow American Citizens do your part this Christmas and every day of the year until Victory has been sewn in the bag. Give War Bonds for Christmas.

A man in business today must know how to fill out forms for the government . . . it makes little difference if he knows anything else. He must fill out forms when he thinks about buying an article, again forms when he buys the article . . . then he helps the customer fill out forms when he sells the article . . . then he must tell some head or other in Washington all about the big deal and how much he made and when his grandmother was born and when would his daughter be married, and if Tommy had the mumps, and then would he be wanting to buy something else . . . won't he please buy something else because if he stopped buying then the office where the forms went through would have nothing to do and the people that ran the office would have to get out and either work or fight. So the business man is getting tired of the form filling out . . . He heard the other day that it takes 25 typewriter operators to put each man in the Armed forces . . . when our Armed forces go to 8,000,000 we then will have 200,000,000 in offices at Washington . . . very fine for a Nation of about 133,000,000 people. Figures must not tell the truth at times.

Keep your eyes open from now until Christmas children . . . it's a grand time.

Documents Show Jap Treachery In World War I

Reveal Methods Used To Overcome China While Japan Fought On Allied Side

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. — New light on how Japan tried to gain control of China during the First World War while she was fighting on the side of the Allies was shed today in diplomatic documents made public for the first time by the state department.

In an appeal to President Woodrow Wilson to protect China's rights at the Paris peace conference in 1919, the then American minister to China, Paul S. Reinsch warned that the policies being pursued at that time by Japan's military masters "can in the end bring only misery and woe to them (the Japanese people) and to the world."

While the western Allies were shedding "streams of blood for liberty," Reinsch, in his message dated January 6, 1919, said that the Japanese were invading China "with every device of corruption and coercion."

"Japan," he added, "has used every possible means to demoralize China, by creating and sustaining trouble, by supporting and financing most objectionable elements, particularly a group of corrupt and vicious military governors and their methods, by employing instigators of trouble, by protection given to bandits, by the introduction of morphia and opium, by the corruption of officials through loans, bribes and threats, by persistent efforts to prevent China going into the war and then seeing to it that China was never in a position to render to the common cause such aid as would be in her power and as she would willingly render if left to herself.

"I have been forced through the experience of five years to the conclusion that the methods applied by the Japanese military masters can lead only to evil and destruction and also that they will not be stopped by any consideration of fairness and justice but only by the definite knowledge that such action will not be tolerated."

Reinsch said that the arrangements made by the Japanese militarists for the conquests of China "are so secretly made than in most cases not even the Japanese foreign office is in possession of the documents relating thereto."

Harvested Acreage In State Is Lower

Totals On 52 Principal Crops Falls Slightly Below 1941 Average

By JOHN C. LOESER
(Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Pennsylvania's total harvested acreage of 52 principal crops this year fell slightly below that of 1941, the department of agriculture has just reported.

This year 5,853,400 acres were harvested against 5,878,100 in 1941. This is substantially below the 6,317,150 acres harvested in the state on the average during the years 1930 to 1939.

Crops of potatoes and peaches were off this season but the apple, pear and grape production increased over the year before.

Potato production amounted to 17,584,000 bushels this year as compared with 21,450,000 bushels last year. Average crop during 1930 to 1939 was 24,924,000 bushels a year. Yield this year only 112 bushels to the acre, while last year the acre yielded 130 bushels.

The 1942 apple crop reached 10,031,000 bushels which was considerably over the 8,643,000 bushels picked last year. This crop surpassed the 9,090,000 bushels a year averaged during 1930 to 1939.

There was a sharp increase in the grape harvest this year over last year. The 1942 crop ran to 21,500,000 tons, against only 12,500,000 tons in 1941. This year's grape output exceeded the 20,300,000 tons average crop of the 1930-1939 period.

The peach crop dropped this year to 1,771,000 bushels from 1,845,000 bushels produced last year. Nevertheless, the 1942 crop was above the 1,656,000 bushel annual crop which was the average during 1930 to 1939.

The pear crop increased this year to 491,000 bushels against 350,000 during 1941, and 609,000 bushels average annual crop in the period 1930 to 1939.

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 21.—Six employes of the East Liberty Democratic club were scheduled for police hearings following a joint police-liquor board raid which netted 300 patrons.
